DUNCAN TRIAL

Accused Said 'I Killed Him' Police Claim

(Special to the Times)
NANAIMO — Arrest of Thomas Sidney Symes on a charge of murdering Paul Richard Powling in Duncan New Year's Day was described today for an Assize Court jury by RCMP Sgt. W. J. Currie. Symes pleaded not guilty when the trial opened Monday before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson. The shooting took place in the room of Symes' estranged wife in a Duncan boarding house.

Sgt. Currie submitted the following written statement, which he said had been made by Symes after all due warnings had been given, and which had been signed by Symes:

BEST FRIEND
"I shot Paul. I killed him. There is no question about it. He was at one time my best friend. He beat me out of my family."

Accused made no protest when he was arrested at 1 p.m. New Year's Day, Sgt. Currie said.

"I put my hand on his shoulder," Sgt. Currie said. "The accused said, 'I will come. I have killed a man, but you are not dealing with a mad dog.'"

SIGNED STATEMENT
After Symes had been given the usual warning, he dictated and signed the statement, Sgt. Currie said.

Cpl. Eugene D. Westhaver, RCMP firearms expert, said the bullet that had killed Powling had been fired from a gun borrowed from Symes' nephew before the shooting. Admissibility of a further oral statement made by Symes to Sgt. Currie after the arrest was still under review by Mr. Justice Wilson, with the jury absent, when the court adjourned at noon.

BRITAIN SETS DATE TO JOIN TRADE BLOC

PARIS (Reuters)—Britain today made a "decisive offer" to give up her insular position and join the European continent in a free trade area within six months.

At the same time, Britain denied she is dreaming of "a third force... to rival the Soviet Union or the United States."

Trade Minister Sir David Eccles stated the British position at the opening session of a 17-nation conference aimed at promoting free trade through Western Europe.

Canadian and U.S. delegations attended.

Supports U.S. Scheme as Behind-Scene Taks at UN Seek to End Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Britain today threw its support behind the new United States compromise plan to settle the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock.

The endorsement came from a British spokesman as U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. conferred with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, Canada's external affairs minister L. B. Pearson, and others active in behind-the-scenes negotiations.

Lodge previously had talked with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi about the plan which State Secretary Dulles presented Monday to the Israeli ambassador.

Under the plan, the United States agreed to give public support to the principle of free shipping in the Gulf of Aquaba and to use its influence to get UN forces into the Gaza Strip. It was hoped these commitments would give Israel the assurances it wanted before agreeing to withdraw Israeli forces back across the 1949 armistice lines.

REWARD FOR WILSON ARREST UNDER STUDY

An investigation is under way by the Canadian Bankers' Association to determine whether a reward will be paid to TCA traffic agent J. Reid Hannan for his part in helping to apprehend bank robber Leonard Wilson.

Wilson got five years in the penitentiary for a hold-up at the Douglas Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Jan. 7, and theft of $1,320.

He was apprehended in Seattle because Mr. Hannan had noted his unusual behavior at Patricia Bay Airport.

The association authorizes rewards up to $5,000. Its action in the Hannan case was prompted by an independent report.

DEMANDS PROBE BY LAW SOCIETY

Fired Law Clerk Claims A-G 'Blemished My Reputation'

City lawyer W. Berkeley Monteith said today if Attorney-General Bonner believes he acted unethically in his capacity of legislative law clerk, a report should be made to the B.C. Law Society.

Mr. Monteith claimed that the attorney-general had "blemished my professional reputation" with a statement made in the House Monday.

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Monteith was fired because "on more than one occasion" he acted in a private capacity on behalf of persons petitioning the Legislature's Private Bills Committee.

Mr. Monteith said today, "I want to have my say in court."

In a prepared statement he said: "... if my behaviour has been of such a character as to involve a serious breach of ethical conduct, as is implied, why is it that the attorney-general, who is ex-officio a member of the Law Society, has neglected to report it to that body."

"I demand that he do so," Mr. Monteith said that as a professional man, his biggest asset was his reputation.

He charged that the attorney-general's statement was made "with complete and typical disregard for every rule of the House."

The attorney-general "in effect has announced a judgment already decided without any charge made or hearing held and in the absence of the person most concerned—myself," Mr. Monteith said.

"The sorriest scoundrel who appears before the Courts receives better treatment," he added that he had "made no secret" of the fact that he was continuing to carry on his private practice while legislative law clerk.

Mutual Arms Ban With West Key To 6-Point Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov announced today that Russia has proposed to the Western Big Three a mutual hands-off program in the Middle East.

Shepilov told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, that the Russian government had transmitted a six-point proposal in notes to the ambassadors of Britain, the United States and France.

Shepilov said in effect the Soviet is ready to stop sending arms to the Middle East if the Western powers will do likewise and will abandon their military bases there.

The six points were:
"1. The maintenance of peace in the Near and Middle East through settling disputed questions exclusively by peaceful means by negotiations."

"2. Non-interference in the internal affairs of the Near and Middle East; respect of the sovereignty and independence of these countries."

"3. Renounce any attempts to include these countries in military blocs with the participation of the great powers (a direct slap at the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact but not at the Arab League alliance which Egypt has been promoting).

"4. The liquidation of foreign bases and the withdrawal of foreign troops from the territories of the countries of the Near and Middle East."

"5. The mutual renunciation of the supply of arms to countries of the Near and Middle East."

"6. Co-operation toward the economic development of the countries of the Near and Middle East without making any political, military or other conditions whatsoever incompatible with the dignity and sovereignty of these countries."

Kremlin Answer to Ike Doctrine

The six points appeared to represent the Kremlin's answer to President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine.

The immediate reaction of Western diplomats appeared to be that their governments would prefer to handle Middle East issues where they are now, in the United Nations, rather than in a big power conference or through a big power declaration.

In London British informants described Russia's proposed "hands-off" policy as a propaganda move to counter the Eisenhower doctrine in the Arab world.

One authoritative source, noting Shepilov's call for a ban on Middle-East arms deliveries, recalled persistent reports that Russian arms are regularly arriving in Egypt.

The French foreign ministry said the Soviet proposals warranted full consideration but apparently contained nothing "concrete."

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said it was an obvious move to discredit Eisenhower's anti-Communist program. Hagerty talked with the president after the president had conferred by telephone with State Secretary Dulles.

Shepilov Back Egypt's Stand

Shepilov said the most urgent Middle East question is "the complete withdrawal of Israeli troops from Egyptian territory," and that Russia supports Egypt's "just demand for full compensation of the damage caused" by the British-French-Israeli attacks on Egypt. Shepilov also lined up again with Cairo's demand that Egypt alone control and operate the Suez Canal. He said "law and justice are wholly on Egypt's side."

The Soviet foreign minister said his government believes "war is not fatalistically inevitable."

Peaceful coexistence between communism and Western capitalism was still "the cornerstone of the foreign policy of the Soviet state."

'WE MUST ALL TAKE SOME BLAME FOR INFLATION'

Social Credit Playing Politics Over Tight Money, Says Strachan

CCF Leader Robert Strachan today accused the Social Credit government of trying to make "political capital" by attacking the federal government's tight money policies.

Mr. Strachan, opening the Opposition attack in the legislature Thursday, said the federal government is not solely responsible for present inflationary trends.

"We all have some responsibility," he said, "therefore we must all take some of the blame, and belaboring the federal government or Bank of Canada or the chartered banks or the industrial enterprises or labor will not solve the problem."

"Something more is required today than a mere tearing down," the Opposition leader told Premier Bennett. Mr. Strachan described recent exchanges between provincial cabinet ministers and federal government officials over the best methods to run the economy as "slapstick vaudeville."

"But nowhere have I heard Social Credit say what they would do—they just condemn others," Mr. Strachan said.

Unless inflation is curbed, the life savings of many people will be wiped out, he said. The CCF leader suggested that Premier Bennett called the election last fall with "break-neck speed" because of a fear of a period of depression and unemployment was ahead.

But during the campaign the premier "stumped the length and

Pickwickian Air Permeates House
—For the Moment

There is a Pickwickian air as yet about the present session of British Columbia's legislature. No angry words, no bitter retorts, but rather the kind of cheery badinage you might expect to be tossed back and forth by the members of Charles Dickens' illustrious Pickwick Club seated around their merry festive board.

The fireworks no-doubt will come later.

Meanwhile, Mr. Pickwick himself almost materialized in the House Monday in the good-natured personage of P. Archie Gibbs, Liberal member for Oak Bay, as he gently chided former members of the older parties for swelling the Social Credit ranks to 39 out of 52 seats.

"Look at them!" said Mr. Gibbs, but without a hint of malice in his voice, "16 ex-Tories, nine renegade CCFers, seven renegade Liberals—and only seven genuine Social Crediters."

Mr. "Pickwick" Gibbs then reminded the laughing House that he and his Liberal colleague, George Gregory, had their backs to the wall in the second row of the opposition. And, proceeding to the tune of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," he talked of cannons to the right of them and, of course, cannons to the front of them (meaning the government).

Asselstine Promised 'Something'

He understood the honorable member for Atlin (ex-Liberal cabinet minister W. J. Asselstine) had been promised "something" in the Social Credit cabinet. (Cries of "no, no.")

Did the honorable member deny this? The honorable member did. He rose on a point of order to say he had never been promised anything.

Mr. Gibbs was gratified to hear the honorable member's honorable denial. But he would not be put down. He did not think Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition would be much concerned about defeating the government. That would come from without. The House knew what had happened to a former Coalition government. And what was this but a coalition of renegades from other parties?

Even the fiery CCF Opposition seemed infected with this Pickwickian mood as they rose, one after another, to chide the government for not promising increased aid to the University of British Columbia in the Throne speech.

Looking rather like Micawber, loquacious bald-pated Leo Nimsick from Cranbrook said he hoped something would "turn up" in the budget. He declared the university was now so crowded there were seven students per wash basin.

"How many girls per phone?" interrupted Premier Bennett, who was also in Pickwickian mood.

After the style of Scrooge's good-natured nephew, Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) appealed to the government not to be "stingy" in providing for poor students.

CCF leader Robert Strachan talked of slapstick comedy between Victoria and Ottawa and said each was metaphorically "sticking its tongue out" at the other through the press.

He asked for a complete financial statement on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, and this produced a light-hearted reproof from Archie Gibbs.

"I always consider it my special privilege to call for returns on the PGE," Mr. Gibbs said. "The honorable leader of the Opposition has encroached on my preserves."

In the midst of all this good humor, it was surprising not to hear from the Sam Weller of the legislature—the elfin, 82-year-old Tom Uphill from Fernie.

Mr. Uphill bounced around in his chair on the Opposition side of the House, scowled at formidable-looking documents on his desk and exchanged furtive whispers with his neighbor, Leo Nimsick.

This is ominous. Mr. Uphill has been in the House for 37 consecutive years. He must be saving up for something.

Palace 'Botched' Rift Rumors
Says Mirror—'Finished Tea' First

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters)—Two mass-circulation newspapers today condemn in outspoken editorials the official handling of U.S. press reports alleging a rift between the queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The tabloid Daily Mirror accuses the cabinet, the Queen's advisers and Buckingham Palace officials of having "botched" the affair by not issuing a firm denial.

The newspaper repeats its call to the duke to "kill the rumors stone dead" by flying home immediately from Gibraltar, where he is scheduled to remain this week before joining the Queen for a state visit to Portugal.

The Daily Herald, official Labor party organ, asserts that "scandalous injustice has been done to the Queen, the Duke, and to this country by the ineptitude with which this matter has been handled."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, in an interview with Mrs. Joan Graham, London correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, who filed the first "rift" report, quotes the 38-year-old Mrs. Graham as saying: "I personally didn't think it would have such a snowball effect, but I do not apologize for reporting rumors."

breadth of the province predicting unending prosperity if only the people would re-elect his Social Credit government."

Mr. Strachan said continuation of present controls by the government and the Bank of Canada will be ineffective.

The heavy rate of investment expenditures cannot be appreciably slowed down through regulation of bank credit, he said.

Higher interest rates are not a deterrent to corporate borrowings because higher borrowing costs are more than offset by the high level of corporate profits.

Also corporations deduct interest payments for income tax purposes so that higher borrowing costs are largely written off.

It is municipalities which find it much more difficult to borrow as a result of the tighter money policy, Mr. Strachan said.

profits must be reduced and depreciation allowances altered if we are to meet the danger of inflation.

Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States must also be corrected if this country is to avoid being vulnerable to any shift in United States policy or conditions. The provincial government should take a more active role in controlling the economy by entering the insurance and housing fields.

Government capital for these purposes could be handled through treasury branches, which Mr. Strachan earlier recommended be created to assist farmers with long-term, low-interest loans.

An important announcement from the Kellogg Company

By George M. Johnston
President, Kellogg Company
of Canada

BEFORE our founder, W. K. Kellogg, died in 1951, he had a great concept about a new cereal. He believed that valuable properties of other foods could be combined with those of the grains in such a way as to produce a high-quality protein food in a delicious new cereal form.

For over 4 years, we at Kellogg's worked hand in hand with leading nutritionists on this project.

Out of it has come an achievement that is perhaps the greatest in our history. Special K.

This new cereal food is an unusual combination of nourishing grains and other natural foods including milk and yeast.

It's a ready-to-eat cereal containing 20% protein

You can start babies on it, feed it to "growing ups" and benefit from it yourself. It is ideal for older people because of its unique, easy-eating qualities, its high-quality protein content. And because Special K contains only 4/10 of 1% fat, it is highly recommended for use in slimming diets.

It has a combination of vitamins specified for us by the nutritionists who worked with us as being most needed by most people.

Yet, the surprising thing is that with all its nutritional properties—this is probably as enjoyable a cereal as anyone has ever put into his mouth. It's not quite a puff, not quite a flake, but I can assure you, it's unusually tempting to eat.

You may be interested in knowing what happened when this new high-protein cereal was sent out in a plain package to several thousand people whose opinions are rather important to us—people just like you.

To begin with, 4 out of 5 started off by saying how much they like its taste:

A dietician said: "This cereal is the answer to my plea for more protein in the diet of my patients. And—they like it very much."

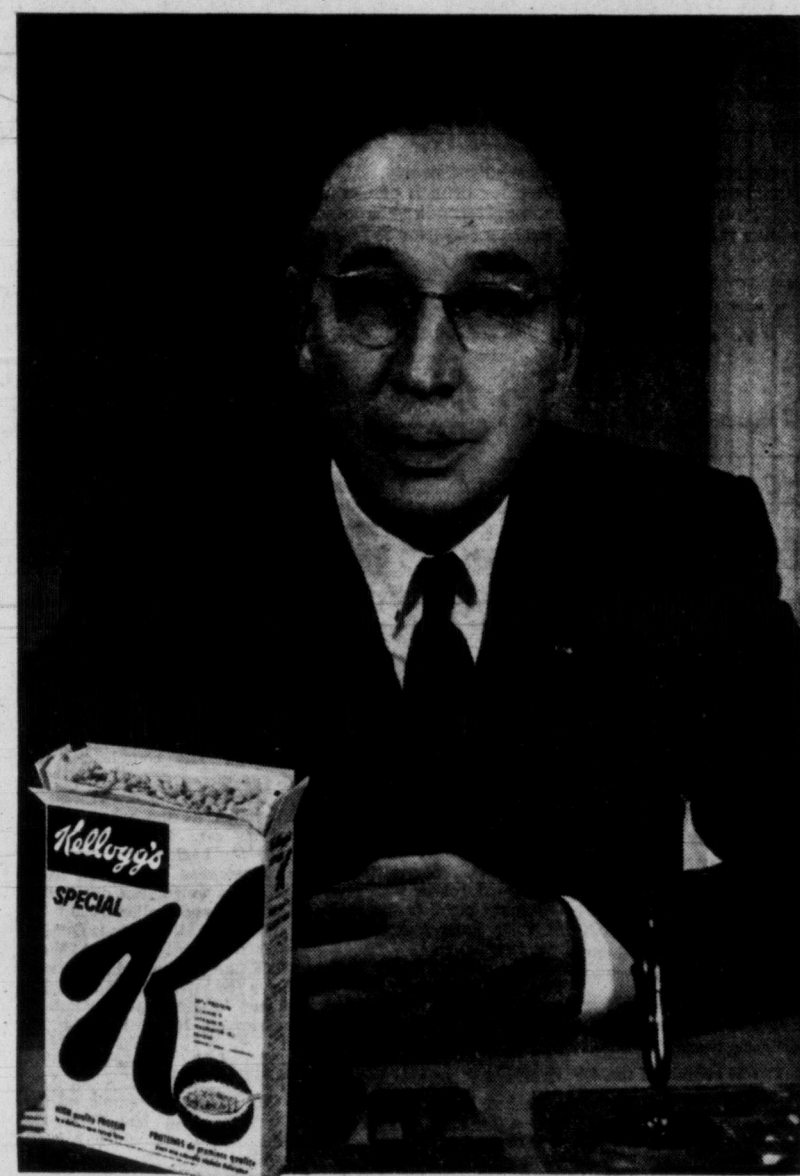

A food editor stated: "It's amazing that a cereal with so much solid nourishment could be so light and tasty."

We're calling this new cereal our "Special K" because we feel the big red "K" in our trade mark is more or less our coat of arms.

Special K is on hand now at most grocers. We want you to try it for its unusual flavor and excellent nutritional benefits. We particularly address this invitation to people who haven't been eating cereals too frequently.

We feel sure you'll enjoy Special K, for breakfast and any time of day you want something wholesome and delicious.

Natural Resources Aid Urged by Opposition

(From Times News Services)

The three opposition parties say they want the government to establish a national development policy aimed at building more manufacturing industries around Canada's raw materials.

This wish was expressed in a motion of non-confidence in the government presented by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. The motion won immediate support from both CCF Leader Coldwell and Social Credit Leader Low.

Mines Minister Prudham, however, said the government is already doing quite a bit to encourage development of natural resources.

The best way to develop mining, at least, was for the government to create conditions favorable for private enterprise to develop the resources.

"We provide the foundation to go forward and do the job," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker coupled his motion with a strong statement of support for the Gordon economic commission proposals on resources development.

Was Report 'To Be Embalmed'?

But "what is the government going to do?" he demanded. Was it going to bring in legislation implementing some of the commission's suggestions? Or was the report "to be embalmed?"

Both Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Low went further than Mr. Diefenbaker and suggested establishment of a national investment policy, but there should also be a national investment board to spread development more evenly across the country.

"We say that some of our great projects should be public projects," he said. Under the present "hit-and-miss free enterprise system we find depressed regions and the most depressed region is the maritime region."

Mr. Diefenbaker said a national development policy, applied to all provinces, would correct economic inequalities, especially in the Atlantic and Prairie provinces.

His policy, outlined in the non-confidence motion, would encourage more processing of raw materials in Canada; give Canadians a greater share of investment control and high posts in foreign corporations operating in Canada; reduce Canada's trading deficits, and provide federal assistance for hydroelectric development, northern highways and other projects.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the federal government should help British Columbia and Saskatchewan in developing the Columbia River and South Saskatchewan River power projects. This could be done for the benefit of Canadians not exported.

This was a departure from the Gordon commission's report which suggested power exports were feasible.

In the general debate, both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Low recommended tax revisions. Mr. Diefenbaker called for a complete overhaul of corpora-

House 'Division' Over Aid to UBC

CCF Move to Censure Government Defeated by Vote of 36 to 12

The B.C. legislature had its first division of the session Monday over a proposed amendment to the motion approving the Throne Speech.

CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan moved an amendment stating that "this House is deeply concerned" because the Throne speech gave no indication of how much aid would be granted to relieve serious overcrowding at U.B.C.

Premier Bennett intercepted the motion by saying: "The time to discuss finances is when the budget is brought down. The government does not accept this motion. It is really a motion of non-confidence."

Six CCF members then rose in turn to support Mr. Strachan's amendment. They were Randolph Harding (Kaslo-Slocan), Arthur Turner (Vancouver East), Leo Nimsick (Cranbrook), Gordon Dowling (Burnaby), Tony Gargrave (Mackenzie) and John Squire (Alberni).

Mr. Squire stated that B.C. loggers would not stand for the kind of conditions UBC students had to endure, and George Gregory (L-Victoria) said he and P. A. Gibbs (L-Oak Bay) also supported the amendment.

When a vote was called the government members shouted "No" while the opposition—excepting Labor Independent Tom Uphill—answered "Yes."

PARTY POLITICS

Mr. Strachan then called for a division.

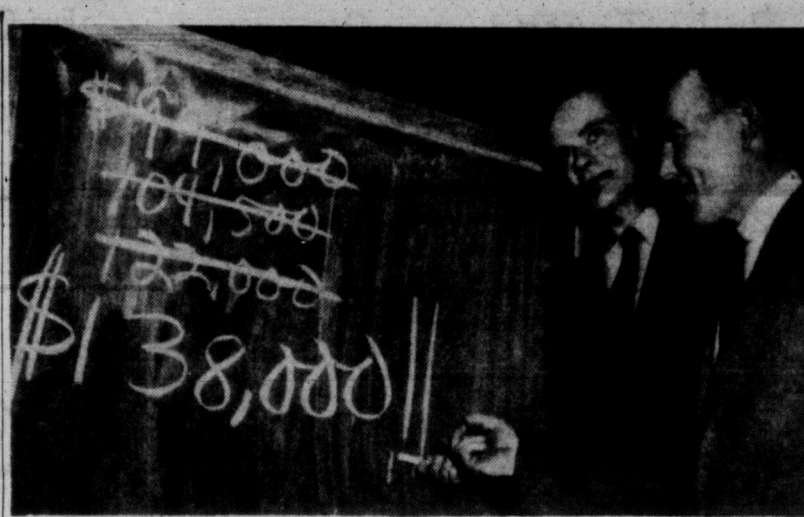

Premier Bennett questioned the need for a division, to which Mr. Strachan replied:

"If there had been only one 'no' we would call for a division on principle."

"Party politics," said the premier.

"If we want to learn party politics we know where the master is," retorted Mr. Strachan.

A division was then called and the CCF amendment was defeated by 36 government votes to 12 from the opposition. Three Social Credit members were absent and there is a vacancy in the CCF ranks caused by the death of Ernest Winch.

PM Denies Canada Threatened Withdrawal From Commonwealth

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Diefenbaker Monday quoted American sources as saying the Canadian government warned last Autumn it would leave the Commonwealth unless Britain withdrew its invading forces from Egypt.

Prime Minister St. Laurent promptly denied the statement, describing it as "entirely false."

Mr. Diefenbaker, presenting a motion of non-confidence in the government, said Mr. St. Laurent had refused to table in the Commons a letter he sent to Sir Anthony Eden, former British prime minister, following the invasion of Egypt by British and French forces last October.

He said he heard Monday over the American Broadcasting Corporation that the letter contained "a warning that unless Britain and France called off their invasion of Egypt in 24 hours Canada would withdraw from the Commonwealth."

"That is a very inaccurate statement," Mr. St. Laurent promptly interjected. "One that is entirely false."

B.C. LUMBER SALES TO DROP, HOWE PREDICTS

MONTREAL (CP)—Trade Minister Howe predicted today that Canada's over-all economy will expand in 1957 but that demand for B.C. lumber will decline in the face of a smaller house-building program and some drop in lumber exports.

The statements were included in the text of a speech to Canadian Lumbermen's Association issued to the press before delivery.

The general outlook for Canada in 1957 was for a "continuation of growth and expansion." However, investment in house construction was estimated to drop by about 20 per cent to $1,253,000,000 from the 1956 record of $1,575,000,000. About $1 out of every $6 spent in the industry goes for lumber and lumber products.

Who Will Pay?

THE PRESENT REVOLT OF the richer provinces against the Federal Government's financial policies is no new thing. But it is a remarkable thing since it comes at the moment when the Federal Government is making gigantic concessions and paying unprecedented sums of money to the provincial treasuries.

These concessions and subsidies, as arranged by the latest Federal-Provincial tax agreements, had been expected to satisfy the provinces, at least for the time being.

They did satisfy the six poorer provinces, more or less, for they are receiving more Federal money than ever, probably more than they expected, and their appetites are relatively modest.

The four rich provinces of Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and Alberta are not so easily satisfied and their appetite for federal money is insatiable.

Yet all the rich provinces are planning to spend this year at an unexampled rate out of their existing revenues. Their budgets break all previous records (Quebec is raising its expenditures by the almost unbelievable amount of 25 per cent) and apparently all of them expect to budget for a surplus, despite their alleged poverty.

The ordinary Canadian citizen who tries to understand all the financial figures behind this controversy will be baffled. He may be puzzled, too, by Ottawa's anti-inflation policy now under attack by all the four rich provincial governments.

But one fact should be clear to him: Every dollar that the Federal Government hands over to the provinces is a dollar taken from his pocket as a federal taxpayer. The Federal Government doesn't own a dollar that it did not collect from the Canadian people in the first place.

In the case of British Columbia and Ontario, moreover, the Federal Government's tax collections are relatively higher than in other provinces for obvious reasons. Since these two provinces have the highest per capita income in the nation, the same nationwide federal tax rate—especially the income tax rate—will take more money per capita out of British Columbia and Ontario than it takes out of the poorer provinces. All areas in the nation pay roughly according to their ability to pay.

The Federal Government, through its taxes, is syphoning off a small portion of the rich provinces' wealth and turning it over, in the form of subsidies, to the poorer provinces.

If the total subsidies or other forms of assistance to the provinces are to be increased, as the rich provinces now demand, it follows that the British Columbia taxpayer will provide a relatively high share of this money through federal taxes.

For every dollar that Mr. Bennett can extract from the federal treasury the people of British Columbia must pay something more than a dollar. But of course Mr. Bennett will escape the unpopularity of collecting that money.

He and others like him no doubt will argue that the Federal Government has more money at the moment than it knows what to do with; that it can easily fatten the provinces out of its large current revenue surplus.

Whether the Federal Government should be accumulating a surplus and reducing the national debt as a weapon against inflation is a matter of opinion. It is a matter of fact that all the money in the Federal Government's hands (except a few dollars collected in the Yukon and Northwest Territories) comes out of the people living in the provinces, especially in the rich provinces like British Columbia.

Any further raid on the federal treasury must be a raid on these taxpayers however it may be disguised by the furies of the present election campaign.

Take Smaller Bites

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION's instructions to the Greater Victoria School Board are simple in essence. The provincial body is telling the trustees to take smaller bites.

That, in substance, is the meaning of the order limiting the board's building program to a three-year, rather than a five-year projection.

If the property owners approve the principle of borrowing for new schools when the issue is put to them next month, the trustees will be able to arrange loans for work only up to 1960. At that date they will have to seek authority for more borrowing.

Under the five-year scheme, the board would have had to return to the people for funds in 1962.

One other important consideration arises from the order. Since the minister has called for continued use of some structures which the trustees had planned to replace, a certain number of students will be required to accept accommodation which the board thinks is unsuitable, but which the department thinks good enough in the present pinch.

Since certain features of the original building program will necessarily be curtailed, because of the shorter period required by the department and because some replacement work will not be included, the loan total will also be reduced. The board will ask for authority to borrow approximately $4,500,000 over three years instead of the $5,600,000 over five.

The lower borrowing figure does not, in itself, indicate a permanent curtailment in building. The board had no intention either of building $5,600,000 worth of accommodation immediately or borrowing the full amount at once under the earlier plan. What the trustees sought was power to borrow up to $5,600,000 when the market was favorable during the next five years. Similar permission will be sought for the reduced sum.

Under any circumstances construction itself would have gone ahead only as the district was able to float loans on a suitable market and only as manpower and material became available.

The same factors will influence building under the abbreviated program.

Certain adjustments are being made, of course, to bring the board's approach to the taxpayers into line with the department's new requirements.

The fact remains, however, that Greater Victoria needs more schools. The shift system is unavoidable for certain classes next term. At best the building program will not provide relief until next year.

Unless the property owners give the trustees authority to borrow when the next referendum is presented, this community can look forward to a steadily deteriorating educational system.

At present, as the results of Junior Matriculation examinations have shown, Greater Victoria stands second to no centre in British Columbia in the accomplishments of its students.

That is a record which can scarcely be maintained unless the urgently needed classrooms are provided.

Much to Talk About

THE PROJECTED SEPARATE conferences among President Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Britain, Canada and France should do much to clear up differences and problems resulting from the Suez explosion.

The proposed talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and Mr. Eisenhower in particular have been greeted with enthusiasm in London. It was only a few weeks ago that relations between the two trans-Atlantic allies were strained to the point where the President refused to meet with Sir Anthony Eden.

Happily that tension has dissipated. The need, to formulate a joint policy, however, still remains. The basic problems of the Middle East, quite apart from the questions of Suez blockage and Israeli withdrawal, are still far from settled.

The recently publicized Eisenhower doctrine may ease, but will not settle, the fundamental issues of Arab-Israeli antagonism or the larger threat of Soviet influence in what is a vital area for oil-hungry Europe.

From the various talks should come, if not a program, at least some agreement on the scope of the problems and possible solutions. For that reason the Bermuda and other conversations will be watched with keen interest.

KING SAUD HAD HIS EYES EXAMINED DURING HIS VISIT TO WASHINGTON — NEWS ITEM

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

In the U.N. Back Rooms

THE American position in the United Nations has become very difficult, especially during the past year. We find ourselves relying more than at any time in the past on the competence and capacity of the United Nations to deal with great issues—as in Eastern Europe and in the Middle East.

When we say the United Nations, we really mean the General Assembly of eighty nations which is now the central organ of that institution. In this General Assembly, since the admission of so many new members from Africa and Asia, we can no longer count, as once we could, on a working majority who agree with us.

From this fundamental weakness come the confusions, the equivocations, the double standards of the U.N.'s dealings with the Soviet Union over Hungary, with India over Kashmir, with Britain, France and Israel over Suez and Gaza and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The fundamental and controlling fact is that the paramount power in the United Nations rests in the General Assembly, and that in the General Assembly there is no effective majority which is willing to apply the same rule of law to the Soviet Union, India, Britain, France, Egypt and Israel.

The General Assembly consists of blocks, and American foreign policy is in very large measure determined by the desire to have the United States play a leading part in a combination of blocs which will yield a majority when the votes are counted. We are acting on the official belief that we must not be pushed into the opposition within the United Nations, that we must participate in the ruling majority.

Two-Thirds
The mathematics of our problems are worth fixing in mind. The General Assembly has eighty members. But since South Africa and Hungary are absent, there are now in fact seventy-eight members. On any important question a two-thirds majority is needed, which means fifty-two votes.

Now what is the maximum number of votes that we can hope to rally on an issue which is of prime importance to the Western world? There are twenty-one inter-American states, all of the Western Hemisphere south of the Canadian border. There are in Western Europe, plus a stretch Yugoslavia, plus the so-called "old" Commonwealth—Canada, Australia and New Zealand—twenty votes. These add up to forty-one votes, which is eleven short of the required majority.

Where is Mr. Lodge, who is the official who has to struggle with the situation?

tion for the United States, to find the necessary eleven votes? There are ten Soviet votes and there are eleven Arab votes that he cannot get.

That makes twenty-one votes that he cannot get and it takes only twenty-seven votes—one more than one-third of all votes—to veto any proposal the United States makes.

There is still one more bloc of fifteen votes, and it holds the balance of power. This is the Afro-Asian bloc. In it we can count fairly reliably on four votes, the Philippines, Thailand, Pakistan and Nationalist China.

But, as we have seen, we need eleven votes to get a majority. So we are still short seven votes. These we have to obtain by bargaining with India, in plain fact by working out compromises with Mr. Krishna Menon.

This means that the United States, working loyally through the U.N., can on the crucial issues take no positive or affirmative position to which Mr. Menon is seriously opposed.

We cannot stand up for what we think is right and just unless we are willing, which we are not, to have a show-down which proves to the world that we are no longer a part of the effective and ruling majority of the United Nations.

Two Conditions

This situation means that on the hard issues the General Assembly can vote resolutions only on one of two conditions. One is that the United States induces the Western blocs to vote with the Arab, Soviet and Afro-Asian blocs. The first of the resolutions passed a week ago Saturday, the one calling for the withdrawal of Israel to its old frontiers, is an example.

The other condition of agreement in the General Assembly is that the real differences between the Westerners and Easterners are belittled to the point where none of the blocs is publicly committed to do anything specific. The second resolution, which appears to deal with the substantial issues in Palestine, is an example of an agreement by deliberate equivocation.

What goes on behind this equivocation? What goes on in secret diplomacy—the only kind of diplomacy that has the remotest chance of working in the conflicts of the Middle East. The General Assembly is a place where nobody can afford to stand up in public and be reasonable. He will be regarded at home as a traitor.

It has, therefore, become necessary in practice to circumvent the General Assembly by letting it speak ambiguously, and then be silent, while secretly and quietly things are talked over in private, perhaps even agreed to in private, that could never be discussed in public. This, at least, is the experiment on which we are now embarked, and we must wish it well.

'Little Bit of Old Asphalt'

Surely most Victorians must be appalled by the suggestion that the site of the new fire hall should be the Pandora Street green, east of Cook Street.

This one section represents the only really satisfactory street scene in downtown Victoria. It is to be wondered that alternate suggested sites were not a portion of Beacon Hill Park or a corner of the Parliament building gardens.

Rather than filling in this last remaining green space, the city should be buying up old building sites with the idea of furthering such small oases in the downtown area. Perhaps the day is not too far distant when Victoria will be known as "Canada's Evergreen Playground," or "A Little Bit of Old Asphalt."

Charity Begins at Home?

Reading Mr. Dunkley's letter in the Feb. 5 issue of your paper, I quite agree with him, re "Hungarian Refugees." The government can spend thousands on them, but many old people are just existing. With prices the way they are how can the poor old souls live?

As for population, why not British immigrants? We don't hear of planes being chartered for them. When we came over in 1906 we had to pay our way and "slugged" it out in Saskatchewan on a homestead with no help from the government.

I was astounded to hear over the radio that Hungarian students were to get college educations with free tuition. Why? Our boys and girls work all summer, many at menial tasks, to get their tuition fees.

If there is any money to throw around why not give our boys and girls a "look in." After all, as Mr. Dunkley says, charity begins at home and many of us think the Hungarian education is being carried too far.

"PEEVED."

Immediately the advocates of colonialism denounce the minister for "intercepting" the petition, and insist that such matters should be dealt with personally by the Governor-General, not by his responsible ministers.

Let us by all means support any measure to secure full justice to the unfortunate squatters on the Hobbema reserve, but don't let us confuse two quite different issues.

Responsible government was introduced in Canada more than a century ago, and since that time the Governor-General has acted on the advice of his Canadian ministers. The ardent advocates of colonial subservience have never really become reconciled to this innovation, but that issue has been settled.

Now let us consider what can be done about the Hobbema squatters — their problem is another issue entirely.

Let's Pull Together

Congratulations to Stuart Keate for his really excellent series on Hawaii. I could not agree more readily with him that the "free Hula shows" at Kaplani Park, Honolulu, are the greatest publicity features and quite free that the islands have to offer.

The zest and elan which is evinced by all persons directly and indirectly concerned with tourism in Hawaii is something we on Vancouver Island have yet to capture in our imagination and thinking towards development of tourism and use of our natural and native talents and assets.

Four years ago I came back after six weeks in Hawaii thrilled and delighted with the "Polynesian Peccadilloes" so vividly described. I myself took 200 color photos of these features. I showed these to many interested groups in an attempt to promote a similar feature once a week, portraying the colorful dances and costumes, traditions of our own historic groups of native peoples. A special showing was given on the Songhee reservation.

Thunderbird Park (which is under provincial jurisdiction) was suggested then as a natural location but with negative results from the government officials consulted at the time.

A committee chaired by a prominent member of Victoria's photographic trade was formed to investigate the photographic possibilities. Thunderbird Park was regarded as ideal in its setting but unsuitable because of its difficult natural light.

Kodak of Toronto were contacted by the tourist trade group to obtain sponsorship but all our efforts at the time proved abortive.

I sincerely hope your publisher's most colorful and factual account of "something we could do here" will strike a more responsive chord than our efforts at the time.

As Stuart Keate says "It's a natural." How about it, all the groups he mentioned—can we get together? We now have a perfect site as pointed out by Stuart Keate in front of the Tallest Totem Pole in the World, which we did not have four years ago.

Pensioners Penalized

In Saturday's Times the editorial "The Pensioners Plight" poses the problem of increased old age pensions—increased inflation. Its searching analysis of the subject invites further discussion, also questions. Here are several.

To start on the ground floor: The editorial, quoting Federal estimates, shows how a $10 monthly increase in old age pensions would add "about $100 millions" to the present pension cost of around $392 millions.

Right here the question arises: Is this Federal estimate of pension costs a real or imaginary one? Have the Federal accountants forgotten that there is an income tax in Canada? If not, why have they ignored the fact that the $392 millions quoted is simply the direct, primary pension appropriation, that an appreciable amount of this sum drains back by way of income tax into the public treasury?

It may surprise some readers to be told that even farmers, including the writer, have at odd times (far too odd) had to pay back out of their pension money, a fair proportion. And in the higher income brackets surely the present income tax ensures that practically all of the pension cheque finds its way back to its source.

And supposing this old age pension increase were granted, why should Parliament "feel bound to increase other pensions of all sorts proportionately" by adding to them also when those other pensions will be proportionately added to by the old age pension increase itself, in due course?

As so sympathetically and factually shown in the editorial "The aged are the helpless victims of inflation." Again the question: Why is this section of society penalized more than any other? Is it simply because old age pensioners as such, have no direct representation in Parliament except an awakening public conscience, not yet very articulate?

Deathbed Repentance?

The well-known news reporter of an American network related an interview with Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's chancellor who was nearing his 81st birthday. Asked what eventually he dreaded most on the international horizon, the aged statesman said that someone in authority somewhere might commit an act of stupidity that would undo all the spadework for the promotion of international goodwill done so far; for, the German chancellor continued, when the Good Lord limited man's genius, He forgot to limit man's stupidity.

A few days later, the ambassador of France to the U.S.A., when asked the prerequisite of a diplomat, said there was an old maxim, that it is not enough for a diplomat to be stupid, he should also be polite.

Herein may be found the answer to the alarming situations, pregnant with the fruit from the seeds of former acts of stupidity, now exploding in chain reactions around the planet, leaving a harvest of disasters.

Thus after decades of bloody warfare and senseless destruction we read in headlines and commentators' columns, that the consummation of an economic union of the West European nations is now in its final stages. All the irritating trade competitions of the past which have caused in destructive wars are over.

Henceforth an economic entity comprising 250,000,000 people, highly skilled mechanically, almost self-sufficient in raw materials and with a market within its own territory, will bring peace and prosperity to us, strike fear into the Communists and consign the memory of Suez into oblivion.

Deathbed conversions of this kind, in the spiritual or the realm of economics may get us into paradise, but it will be the proverbial fool's paradise. The Church tells us there are three requisites to salvation: confession, repentance and restitution. Even if we skip over the first two prerequisites, it will take a long time to make restitution.

Just look at the blood and tears of the oppressed Hungarians under the tyrant's whip. Before the First World War they were free and part of an economic entity of 50 million people; now, with the other remnants of the Austro-Hungarian realm, they are in barbed wire corrals, hopeless, hungry.

Or take a glance at the other powder keg, Arabia. Divided and subdivided it looks like a lunatic's exercise in geometry, the same territory promised to Arab and Jew in secret treaties. Fortunately according to Lloyd George's memoirs both promises were made in ambiguous language.

This may have been the reason the U.S.A. was invited to declare the Palestinian lands an American sphere of influence: They needed a few Philadelphian lawyers to clarify the ambiguities. Judging by the disputes we read about matters have not been cleared yet.

What really has gone wrong all of a sudden, is the breakdown of the propaganda machine after 40 years of incessant operation producing diplomatic oplate. The demand has ceased.

My Ears Are Bent

WITH less trouble than slipping on a banana skin, you can become involved in an argument on the "top ten" and leading platters in our house any hour of the waking day.

There's no difficulty at all in starting such a discussion. The problem is to turn it off, or, better still, to stop it from starting.

In this day and age, it's normal enough to find teenagers engrossed in their counterpart of what used to be popular favorites in my youth. The kids have jump tunes, rhythm in blues, dixieland and other varieties thrown at their heads in an unending barrage from the radio. Just in case that doesn't scramble their mental eggs, they can supplement the cacophony with records of their own. Biblical bedlam was a monastic retreat compared to our house.

The trend, I guess, doesn't differ much from one generation to another when it comes to absorption of what is currently acceptable to the juvenile ear. That is, it doesn't differ much in kind. The difference is in degree. Those who remember the earlier days of radio will recall the tune "Valencia." It came on the air so often that regulations were made to limit its playing. That way, it was thought, a sprightly and attractive piece wouldn't wear out its welcome.

CHICKS COMING HOME

Thirty years ago, and probably long before that, teenagers were engrossed in their popular tunes. Some of them were pretty raucous too. Just possibly, their constant repetition was as unpleasant to adults of that day as are some of the selections with which the current bobby-sox crowd keeps the walls shaking.

It doesn't take much research, either, to recall the importance given to what we described as "jazz." Some pretty good stuff was written about it. There were informed experts then, as there are now.

But there is a difference. "Jazz" was only a part-time appreciation to the majority of kids. Today's stuff seems to be an overriding, all-pervading and unending religion to too many of them.

You find now, that a number of teenagers accept it as the big thing in life. If you can't talk the latest piece sizzling off the cutting machines, you aren't in. You're a square. You don't understand the finest. That's where the difference in degree comes in.

I'm certainly not inclined to deny the kids their legitimate recreation. Nor am I prepared to crack down too heavily on what they choose as musical enjoyment. Each generation to its own particular poison. If they want to skip around to some of the pieces like grasshoppers with sprained ankles, that's alright, within limits, too. The Charleston, the Blackbottom and the Varsity Drag of rosy memory weren't exactly ballet in my time.

WHEN IS ENOUGH ENOUGH?

But when is enough enough? How much time does a youngster give to his top tenners? And when he has become an expert on the new pieces, what has he got?

A kid could do worse things than lie on the middle of his spine in an easy chair listening to his new "music." He could do a lot of much better things, too.

Philosophically, I suppose today's parent should recognize the current "top ten" as a form of juvenile ailment, like chickenpox and measles. But it would be pleasant to see a little more balance among the youngsters—and a little less encouragement from those sources which make money on the kids' inclination to "top tenism."

A kid should know that there are more effective ways of passing time than listening to somebody else singing about sifting sand at the seashore. He might even be stimulated, by ambitious elders, to a little active sifting himself. And the sifting could even extend to ideas. It's a hope.

In the meantime, at our house, we're passing through a conventional disease known as platter spinning. We've been through chickenpox, measles, whooping cough, rubella and scarlet fever with less distress. Maybe we'll survive the "top ten," though the infection seems more severe in this case.

YOUR HEALTH

Fighting Health Measures

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

I was just reading in the Bulletin published by the National Society for Medical Research, that many of the persons who love to fight all measures that are designed to conserve the public health have united under the banner of an organization called—most inappropriately—a Health Federation. It has always interested me to see that whenever a group of persons want to fight the Salk vaccine for polio, or vaccination against smallpox, or vaccination of dogs against rabies, or the improvement of medical colleges, or the proper licensing of physicians, or the persecution of quacks, a remarkable lot of bed-fellows get together.

As the National Society for Medical Research people say, one finds in the new Federation anti-vaccinationists of all kinds. One finds, of course, antivivisectionists, whose main animus is against the medical profession; one finds faith healers, also some ministers of the Gospel, some cancer quacks, some chiropractors, naturopaths, naprapaths and such; and, of course, many crack-pots who are against everything. Finally, one finds many good people who, I am sad to say, were once outraged by some unfortunate experience they had at the hands of a physician or a hospital.

Many times a year everyone in a city with a grievance against scientific medicine will join in an attack on the health officer—an attack designed to keep him from doing his duty, which is to protect the public health. He, a highly-trained expert hired by the people to guard them against epidemics, is told what not to do, by people who know almost nothing about medicine! Aren't we humans funny!

CHILDREN'S SHOES

A while ago, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Louis Starr, an orthopedist in New York, had an interesting article on children's shoes. He answered many of the questions that mothers ask about their children's feet.

He said that a baby's shoes should be pliable so as to interfere as little as possible with the motion of the feet. A weak foot is one which, when the body's weight comes on it, flattens out, and tends to roll inward. A person with weak flattish feet tends to stand and walk with his toes pointing outward instead of straight ahead; and in time this makes matters much worse for him. High shoes are better for a baby than low ones, if only because he or she can't pull them off so easily. Later, the child is better off with low shoes, or none at all.

Shoes for children must always be carefully fitted by a competent salesman. They should be neither too large nor too tight. A mother must remember that a child often outgrows his shoes before he can wear them out. He should have new ones fitted as soon as the old ones begin to be too small. The mother should note how far the big toe is from the front of the shoe. This distance should never be less than a quarter of an inch. When the shoes are bought, this distance should be from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ of an inch. The ball of the child's foot should come where the shoe bends easily. When the child raises his heel and bends forward, the sides of the shoes should not gape outward. As the child walks, the back part of the shoe should not be slipping and riding up and down. This will make blisters. The shoes should be comfortable for the child.

The greatest wear should come on the outer half of the back of the heel of the shoe. Wear in unusual places on the shoe shows that the child has an abnormal way of walking.

In a large family it is a poor practice to hand down shoes from one child to another—they are not likely to fit well enough. Going bare-foot is good for a child as it exercises his feet. As a boy living in the tropics I always pulled off my shoes and stockings the minute I came home from school; it was such fun to go bare-foot.

For certain types of deformity of the feet the orthopedist must give special instructions to a shoe-maker.

POLYPS IN THE NOSE

Dozens of people ask me what to do about polyps in the nose. Usually the nose and throat men remove them quickly in the office with what is called a snare. It is a loop of wire which, when pulled back through a little tube, bites through the base of the little pearly ovoid tumor, about as big as a peanut. The polyps are benign, which means that they are not cancerous.

Usually the cause of the polyps appears to be an inflammation of one of the sinuses. Sometimes something can be done for that, but often it can't be cured. Some of these persons with polyps have asthma. In many cases the polyps will return, but then they can be "snared" out again.

Grandfathers Govern Canada

TORONTO (BUP)—The country today has "a government of grandfathers . . . and you know how hard it is to teach your grandfather new tricks," E. Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops) said Monday night at a Toronto-St. Paul's nominating convention.

"The prime minister has shown by his conduct there are very good reasons why he should not continue in that position," Fulton said. "No man who sat idly by . . . and allowed his party and his cabinet colleagues to do to parliament what they did last year during the pipeline debate can safely be said to be a protector of Canadian democracy."

"What we have in a cabinet under a leader all subscribing to the doctrine of cabinet dictatorship."

"It is not the supermen of Europe but the would-be supermen of Canada . . . about whom we should be concerned."

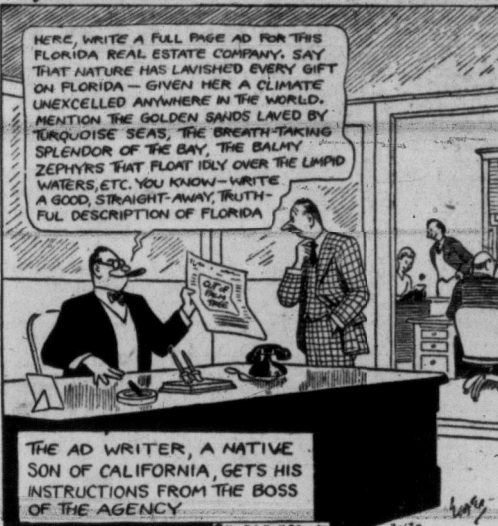

This was a reference to the prime minister's comment during last November's special Suez session that "the day of the supermen of Europe" was over.

"They are not supermen . . . they are grandfathers," Fulton said.

The advent of stainless steel flatware has been a great boon for modern Canadian homemakers. It is available in a wide variety of attractive designs suitable for the most fashionable and discriminating hostess. Made in Canada from stainless steel containing approximately 8% Inco Nickel, such flatware has a hard, corrosion resistant surface that is easy to keep clean and lasts for a lifetime. Stainless steel flatware is only one of hundreds of products of Canadian industry made with Inco Nickel.

There's INCO NICKEL in modern Canadian-made stainless steel flatware

STAINLESS STEEL flatware in smart, modern designs is now produced in Canada.

And practically all of it contains Inco Nickel, because most of the stainless steel used in flatware is made in Canada with Inco Nickel.

Inco Nickel starts out as raw ore at Inco's mines near Sudbury, Ontario. Down in the mines, workmen blast out the nickel-bearing ore. It is milled and smelted at Copper Cliff. Then it goes to Inco's refinery at Port Colborne. A Canadian steel company uses this refined nickel to make stainless steel. In the form of strip, this stainless steel goes to Canadian flatware manufacturers where it is fashioned into knives, forks and spoons.

All these operations help provide jobs for thousands of workmen. In this way, Inco Nickel helps stimulate the growth and development of industry in Canada.

$1.1 Million Cut In School Vote; Voting March 9

10 Out of 21 Projects Reduced
In Size After Government Order

Greater Victoria School Board cut its proposed building program by $1,130,000 Monday night in carrying out a B.C. government order for a maximum three-year expansion plan.

Voters will be asked March 9 to approve expenditure of $4,470,000 by 1960 instead of $5,600,000 by 1962—a proposal which was defeated by a close vote in December and was to have been presented to the voters again until the cut-back order was made.

Altogether, 10 of 21 projects listed for completion in the five-year plan, were reduced in scope.

Reductions were based on an estimated increased enrolment of 3,000 students by 1960. The previous plan had been drawn to accommodate an additional 4,000 youngsters by 1962. Current enrolment is 17,239.

The only proposed new school eliminated in the scaled-down program is the $148,000 six-room Craigflower Elementary School.

Full List of Changes in Program

Here is the new school-building program with changes listed:

Esquimalt High School: This is a new construction to be built near Lamson and Colville Road. It has been reduced from 18 to 15 rooms by elimination of two classrooms and a bandroom, to fit 450 students instead of 540. ($710,400.)

F. T. Fairley Vocational-Tech: No change in plans to add four shops and renovate some areas at a cost of $84,800.

Mount Douglas High School: An eight-room addition was planned. Now it will be six rooms by elimination of an art room and a band room. ($242,000.)

Mount View High School: This $105,000 addition was transferred previously to the current building program through use of surplus funds from the first postwar building by-law.

Oak Bay High School: Reduced from 11 additional rooms to 10, plans now are to accommodate 300 instead of 330 new students. ($551,000.)

Gordon Head Junior High: Instead of 23 rooms, this new project will be built to contain 13. More rooms will be considered in the anticipated 1960 school program. Capacity shrinks from 680 to 400 pupils. ($702,400.)

Lansdowne Junior High School: Two classrooms were dropped; six will be added; new price $134,700.

Oak Bay Junior High: No change; $203,400; seven rooms and some alterations.

S. J. Willis Junior High School: No change; six rooms; $213,100.

New Craigflower School Dropped

Craigflower: Eliminated. This was a replacement project and disapproved by the department of education.

Frank Hobbs: No change, three rooms, $85,000.

Gordon Head: Five-room addition eliminated at a reduction of $104,600.

Hampton School: No change, a seven-room new school, $159,000.

Lake Hill School: No change, seven rooms, $159,000.

McKenzie Avenue: Addition of one activity room, unchanged, $37,000.

Marigold Elementary: No change to proposed addition of three rooms at a cost of $75,000.

Sir James Douglas: No change to proposed addition of four rooms, alterations and a new heating plant estimated at $146,000.

Uplands Elementary School: No change, seven rooms, $191,500.

Administrative Centre: Plans for a new school board headquarters annex are unchanged and an estimate of $80,000 remains in the by-law. Plans could be altered by current Victoria city investigations which might lead to the present building, Craigdarroch Castle, being converted to a tourist attraction.

Proposed order of construction is as follows: First year—Frank Hobbs, Uplands, Oak Bay High, Lansdowne, Marigold, Lake Hill and F. T. Fairley. Second year—S. J. Willis, Mount Douglas, Oak Bay Junior High, Esquimalt High, Shelbourne. Third year—Gordon Head Junior High, Sir James Douglas, Hampton, McKenzie and the administrative centre.

The department of education has already approved the board's estimate that 3,020 additional students will be enrolled by 1960, the assumption upon which the new program is based.

Juveniles Suspected In Extortion Threat

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Police are investigating a possible juvenile extortion plot following discovery of two threatening notes under the door of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Lozin here. The first read: "O.K. Mrs. you like your kid don't you. Well if you put $50 in an envelope and put it under the yellow Buick outside, your girl will not be harmed." The other said: "Fifty dollars under the front wheel of the car or you had better look out for your kid."

The Lozins have a six-year-old daughter. Police said the notes looked like the work of "third or fourth graders."

Treasury Branch Plan Requested By CCF Leader to Help Farmers

The provincial government was urged Monday to set up treasury branches to assist farmers with long-term, low-interest loans.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said every section of B.C. agriculture is in trouble and the government must take direct action. "You're asking Ottawa to do it all," he scolded the government.

Besides the treasury branches, the government should create a stabilization fund to assist agriculture.

"A substantial sum should be set aside for this purpose," he said.

Mr. Strachan said a royal commission should be investigating all phases of provincial agriculture, not just the fruit-growing industry.

There should be a thorough investigation into the price spread between producer and consumer, particularly in the egg industry.

The government should set up a department of co-operatives.

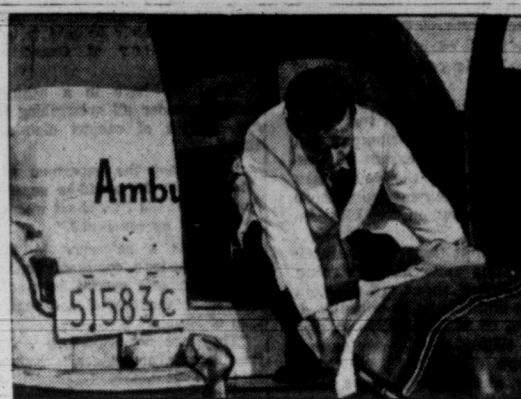

"More than lip service to co-operatives is needed," Mr. Strachan said.

NANAIMO — Thomas Sidney Symes, 31-year-old Duncan logger, admitted he had shot Paul Richard Powling early New Year's Day, a witness told Assize Court here Monday afternoon.

New Work Set For Airport At Port Hardy

Runways, Buildings To Cost $525,000

Department of Transport will spend $525,000 this year at Port Hardy airport on runway improvement, construction of a new administration building and control tower, and dwellings for the department staff.

Port Hardy is on the east coast of Vancouver Island, 120 miles north of Campbell River and only 40 miles south of Cape Scott.

Department officials in Vancouver said the Port Hardy project is one of several to be undertaken in B.C. at a total cost of more than $3,250,000 for the year.

Other Vancouver Island project planned is provision of department staff houses at Spring Island, in Kyoquot Sound on the west coast.

Zoning Appeal Board Due In C. Saanich

SAANICHTON — Central Saanich plans to set up a zoning board of appeal to deal with contentious rezoning applications.

Preliminary steps were taken at a council meeting Monday when a strong delegation objected to an application for rezoning property on Verdier Avenue for the establishment of an antique gift store and workshop.

Residents of Verdier, above Beach Drive, opposed any rezoning of this area for commercial purposes.

45,000 CARS
Resultant discussion disclosed that 45,000 automobiles are handled in and out of Moodyville annually by ferries operating every half-hour daily.

Despite this traffic and the tourist movement involved, it was argued that the area was purely residential and should be kept for those who had picked Brentwood as an ideal place of retirement.

It was obvious, said Reeve H. R. Brown, that in view of the strong opposition the rezoning application could not be entertained.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

DOING THE WEEKEND WASH

HANDFUL OF SUDS—The Cougars are there again, tied for third place and here we go again. As hard to hold as a wisp of smoke, third place just won't hold still. But now the Cougars dig in solidly at Memorial Arena for a four-game home stand. If anyone says this is another crucial series, we'll scream. But...

In the words of coach Colin Kilburn, "We're going alone from now on. We've been looking for too much help, hoping that other teams would knock off our closest rivals. From now on, we're going to concentrate on doing everything for ourselves without looking for help."

FILLING THE TUB—And don't think Jim Piggott was just looking for a change of scenery when he took his Brandon Regals and the Winnipeg Warriors to St. Paul Sunday for a WHL league game. Piggott, make no mistake, is looking for a new-hockey home, having just about given up on Brandon, and St. Paul could be ready for a return to pro hockey. That 7,000 crowd that turned out must have warmed the cockles of Piggott's heart. Brandon is a sad sack of fish as a hockey town. It has a population of only 20,000 and a ramshackle, unheated rink. Even with a league-leading club Brandon fans don't turn out. St. Paul, on the other hand, has, with its twin city of Minneapolis, a potential draw of close to 1,000,000. The Twin Cities are a comfortable overnight sleeper ride from Winnipeg and its fans, according to reports, have been hungering from hockey since the death of the old United States Hockey League. Tab St. Paul as a possible entrant in the WHL next year.

EMPTYING THE LAUNDRY BAG—Max McNab, the slender slicker of the New Westminster Royals is out of hockey action because of a peanut. In a recent game at New Westminster, an overheated Royal fan flung the goober on the ice, Max hit it with his skate blade and wrenched a muscle in his groin. A few years ago, Colin Kilburn skated over a penny thrown on the ice at New Westminster and suffered a badly sprained ankle. Even a paper match-stick can be as big as a railway tie when a skate hits it. And if the Royals miss the playoffs because of McNab's injury, that peanut-tosser should be pelted to death with goobers. . . . And McNab was saying just last week, "The guy I don't like to see on the ice is that Don Chipka. He scored something like 17 goals last season and nine of them were against us." . . . Don Simmons continues to fit in goal for the Boston Bruins as if he was tailor-made for the job. But Boston scout Harold Cotton was saying recently that the first time he scouted the young net-minder, Simmons let 11 goals in. Cotton also said that the Bruins tried to secure Johnny Bower from the New York Rangers but the Rangers wanted Leo Labine and Fern Flaman for the minor-league goalie.

DIRTY LINEN—George Eade isn't the vindictive type. But if he was, he could have a whale of a chuckle at the spot the four mainland clubs have worked themselves into in their efforts to form a soccer combine on the mainland. George wanted to get out of the politics-ridden Coast Soccer League but rather than see the short-sighted selfish mainland interests take over, he has filed his entry just to keep his voting power and to add strength to the executive. Without Eade's vote, the four-vote team bloc could out the three-vote executive but George has snarled them up in their own machinations. . . . Also in the soiled laundry department is the indefinite suspension given George Senick by the Seattle Americans. The less said about this sort of thing the better, except that this is the second time since Christmas that Senick's notorious off-ice capers have got him into public trouble.

THROUGH THE WRINGER—Lacrosse's Lou Landess takes a wife this Saturday night. Lou planned to retire after his marriage but his intended, a solid Shamrock fan, is insisting he continue playing for the good of the team. For which all lacrosse fans will be grateful.

A QUICK RINSE—The next time you hear an argument about those sky-scraping goon squads ruining basketball, just bring this up. The leading scorer in U.S. intercollegiate basketball is Chet Forte, of Temple, who stands a modest 5' 9". Second to him is Kansas Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot thing whose basket-stuffing tactics have earned him the new nickname "The Big Dipper."

HANGING IT OUT—The rumor mill grinds out the chaff that Jake Proctor will coach the New Westminster Salmonbellies this season and that Jack McKinnon will step up from junior ranks to coach the Vancouver entry. . . . Don't miss the intriguing story in the latest Sat. Ev. Post on the major leagues' rookie tryout camps.

FIRST HOCKEY GUILD FORMED . . .

NHL Players 'Not Looking for Trouble'

NEW YORK (UP)—National Hockey League officials adopted a "wait and see" attitude today while the newly-organized players planned to make their first formal requests of the club owners next April.

The players are particularly interested, it was learned, in discussing their role in the NHL's new coast-to-coast telecasts. The decision to form the new association was related directly to the telecasts as well as NHL officials' recent predictions that major league hockey soon will undergo tremendous expansion in the United States.

"We felt it would be a great thing to be organized when we discuss these problems," one member of the association's executive committee told the United Press. "At the present time we aren't making any formal statements but we expect to have something to put before the owners in April."

The players announced Monday that they have organized the association and elected Ted Lindsay, captain of Detroit Red Wings, as its president. Officers elected to two-year terms were Doug Harvey of the Montreal Canadiens (first vice-president), Fern Flaman of the Boston Bruins (second vice-president), Gus Mortonson of the Chicago Black Hawks (third vice-president), Jim Thomson of the Toronto Maple Leafs (secretary), and Bill Gadsby of the New York Rangers (treasurer).

Lindsay said only one player in the league has not joined the group but repeatedly emphasized the players "are not out to make trouble." NHL players have a minimum $6,500 salary and a pension plan enabling a 10-year veteran to earn $300 a month when he reaches 65 years of age.

"Of course, each of us might have individual problems but we have not a group complaint right now," said Lindsay. "Maybe we might try to have the pension so inviting that more and more boys would want to play hockey but we have no such plan at present. We aren't going to try to change the league."

NHL president Clarence Campbell sounded the keynote for the owners and general managers, who all conceded the players' action caught them by surprise.

Campbell said Lindsay's remarks "represent about as fine a public relations statement as the National Hockey League could hope to have, because it is quite evident that the officials of the new association are completely satisfied with the treatment they have received from the member clubs of the NHL, both individual and collectively."

"Under the circumstances, it would be difficult to know what interests, rights or privileges there could be which would require the protection of a formal association," Campbell continued. "But it is gratifying to learn that they propose to help make hockey so popular an attractive that all young Canadians and Americans will want to play professional hockey."

Jack Adams of the Red Wings, Tommy Ivan of the Black Hawks and Lynn Patrick of the Bruins all mentioned the players' pension plan in their comments.

... BOSSES CAUGHT BY SURPRISE

Adams: "The players have the finest pension plan I know of and always have had a representative in the pension plan. I don't know what they need a lawyer for."

Ivan: "The players have a fine pension plan and the officers of the new union are the same as those who headed the pension plan."

Patrick: "This is all new to me. I do know they don't need any association to help them out. They have been treated as well as any group of professional athletes. I missed the pension plan by one year so I'm not too interested in it but I'd say they are lucky to have one."

No Favorite Seen In Prep Hoop Meet

Competition in high school basketball is expected to reach a fever peak this weekend at Victoria High School as eight teams battle for supremacy in the city championships.

Three top teams in the tourney will represent the lower Island in the Island championships at Duncan, March 1 and 2.

With an unusually complex situation existing in the present high school hoop picture, no favorite squad can be picked with any certainty.

Only Mount Douglas and Vic High Totems have been undefeated in local competition this season, but their positions are by no means secure.

Gary Taylor's Oak Bay team is also rated a threat in the tourney, while the other five squads are expected to make the road to the championship a tough one.

TWO GYMS

Games will begin at 3:30 Friday, with Esquimalt tackling Mount Doug in the old gymnasium while Mount View clashes with North Saanich on the court in the new addition.

Held for the purpose of raising expenses to keep the city's minor hockey program operating during the next season, "Minor Hockey Night" was hailed by association president Doug Fletcher as "the biggest success, financially speaking, we've ever had."

MIKE STARRY Probably the best player on view during the proceedings was Mike Harper, of Nanaimo, who carried his team to a 5-5 tie with Victoria in the featured midget all-star game. Harper scored four goals, including two in the final period, to bring his club from behind a 3-4 deficit.

Blacks, aided by a two-goal performance by Mike Woodley, tripped Gols, 4-1, in the bantam division opener, while Reds and Blues played to a scoreless tie in a midget tussle.

Bjorn Stavrum scored in the final two minutes to salvage a 1-1 tie for Gols in a pee-wee tussle against the Blacks, who grabbed a first-period lead on Paul Bion's goal.

Junior all-stars defeated juvenile east-stars in the final game of an interesting night.

Winning mainland clubs will host the bantam series March 7-9 and the midget final Feb. 28-March 1.

First four runners only will count for each team.

three and four will be seeking to further themselves on the new court.

Finals and semifinals will be held Saturday night.

While all teams will play three games, a loss in the first round would eliminate a team from any chance of a tournament win.

SENICK THROUGH Allan added, "Senick will never play for us again. He's through."

In addition, the Americans have lost two centres through injuries.

Rudy Fillon, veteran pivot-man, who has been slowed by injuries this season, has been hospitalized with a kidney infection and it is feared that the ailment may end his hockey career.

Barton Bradley, a former Victoria Cougar, has been put on the injured list with a possible hernia condition.

Senick, who was acquitted on an assault and battery charge brought against him by a Seattle waitress in December, was being held on $1,500 bail today on two counts of contributing to the delinquency of minors, involving two teen-age girls.

With their once-commanding 12-point division lead pared to five points, the Americans have sent out a distress call.

Allen has appealed to Detroit Red Wings to plug his player gaps.

MEET FLYERS Seattle plays Edmonton Flyers Wednesday night and has received a promise of help from Detroit.

Allan hoped to call up Jerry Penner of the Trail Smoke-Eaters but Trail, involved in a close league race, could not afford to lose the young forward.

Two league games are scheduled in the WHL tonight. Edmonton playing at Vancouver and New Westminster Royals visiting Winnipeg.

The Victoria Cougars, idle in league play tonight, will play Nanaimo Clippers at Nanaimo in a benefit game. They host the Flyers Friday night at Memorial Arena.

NEW ORLEANS—Ralph Dupas, 140, New Orleans, stopped Irish Pat Mallone, 128, Waterbury, Conn., 5.

First four runners only will count for each team.

Two Injured; Senick Suspended

The blissful dreams of the Western Hockey League-leading Seattle Americans became a gloomy, scandal-tinted nightmare today.

The Americans, holding a five-point lead in the coast division of the WHL, have lost three forwards, at least one of them permanently.

George Senick, American left-winger, who has scored 200 goals in his WHL career, was arrested by Seattle police Saturday night and charged Monday with two moral counts.

Seattle coach Keith Allen announced Monday night that Senick had been suspended indefinitely by the club "for conduct detrimental to the team."

SENICK THROUGH Allan added, "Senick will never play for us again. He's through."

BIONDA REJOINS ROCKS FOR MANN CUP BATTLE

Victoria Shamrocks took a big step towards getting back into the Mann Cup lacrosse picture Monday when they received news that Jack Bionda would return to the club this season.

Bionda, currently playing hockey with Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League, advised Whitey Severson by telegram that he would be returning to the Intercity Lacrosse League wars with the Rocks.

Bionda, who won the 1954 league scoring title in his first year with the Rocks, but played only part of the 1955 schedule, is a colorful stick-handling wizard who should help boost falling attendance in Victoria.

Times Renews 8-Enders Offer

By DOUG PEDEEN Today marks the first anniversary of an event Jim Barclay won't forget.

What curler would forget scoring an eight-ender, the roaring game's equivalent of a perfect no-hitter in baseball?

Barclay and his rink engineered the masterpiece Feb. 12 last year in a Sunday Commercial League game. It was the second eight-ender in league or bonspiel play in four years at Victoria Curling Club. Hugh Renfrew tossed a perfect end at Ed Etches in Commercial League play in 1955.

However, the Barclay quartet still registered a first. They were the first, and only, winners of a $100 prize offered by The Daily Times for an eight-ender at VCC.

On the first anniversary of the event, The Times is again offering $100 for any rink scoring an eight-ender at Victoria Curling Club in regular club draws or bonspiel play.

Jim Barclay hit the jackpot. Who's next?

Barclay can probably still remember the last two shots of that perfect end.

Curling with his wife Judy, Bill Schneider and Diane Kosenk against Walter Gallagher's rink, Barclay was leading, 9-7, coming home.

When he stepped into the hack for his last shot, he had seven rocks in the house.

His last shot was almost too heavy, but lay up against another rock, biting at the back of the 12-foot circle.

Gallagher had no rocks in the house and it appeared he couldn't miss when he fired his last shot, a booming runner.

Narrow on the broom, the rock came in through a port on the left side of the house, barely wicking one of Barclay's rocks in the eight-foot ring, and continuing out of the house to save Barclay's niche in Victoria Curling Club history.

Beliveau Takes Back Red-Hot Scoring Lead

Figures released today showed the slugging Habitant made four weekend assists to gain 66 points. Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe, of the Detroit Red Wings, shared second spot. Howe scored two goals and made one assist for three points, while Lindsay scored one assist for one point, giving both 64 points.

Andy Bathgate, the New York Rangers' centre, gained four points after scoring one goal and making three assists for third place with 49 points. Norm Ullman retained his fourth-place standing with 47 points as Dickie Moore gained one point by scoring one goal. AMBITIONOUS HOLD-UP MEN GET LITTLE BUT TEARS

BOSTON (AP)—A burglar gang intent on stealing the weekend receipts of two capacity hockey games, a full-house basketball game and the Tony Demarco-Gaspar Ortega fight, fled Boston Garden under tear gas Monday with only $3,000.

Garden officials said the robbers apparently sought all the receipts from the sporting events—probably as much as $100,000.

The burglars—believed to number seven—tied up an 81-year-old watchman and cracked a five-inch-thick safe with acetylene torches only to be met by a blast of tear gas from a protective device inside.

SIX-MONTH ULTIMATUM

Bums Said Mulling Los Angeles Move

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily News says Brooklyn Dodgers will shift their franchise—likely to Los Angeles—unless they are assured within the next six months of getting a new ball park.

In the first of a three-part newspaper series under sports-writer Dick Young's by-line, the newspaper quotes Dodger president Walter O'Malley as saying:

"During the next six months I shall pursue a policy of watchful waiting. If, at the end of that time, the show is not on the road, and it is obvious that we are not to have a stadium, then I will have to make other arrangements."

"Subtract six months from three years, the length of the Dodgers' lease in Ebbets Field, and you have 2½ years left. I can't wait beyond that. It would require 2½ years to build a stadium elsewhere."

The news defines "elsewhere" as Los Angeles.

The newspaper says the series is an attempt to answer the question of whether the city is serious about building a 50,000-seat, all-year sports centre in Brooklyn, which would house the Dodgers.

O'Malley, who was not available for comment on the story, said previously he would like to keep the Dodgers in Brooklyn—but that a new park, with ample parking space, is a necessity.

Rangers Also Pleased Camille Picked Hockey

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—A scrawny-looking Canadian youngster who might have made the grade as a shortstop for Milwaukee Braves is giving New York Rangers a lift in their battle to win a National Hockey League playoff position.

"I'm sure glad I chose hockey over baseball," says centre Camille Henry. "I think I'm up in this league to stay now."

In his last three games, the 23-year-old native of Quebec City has scored eight points, including three goals. He had a vital goal and assisted on another Sunday night as the Rangers beat Montreal Canadiens, 5-4, to take over sole possession of fourth place—the final Stanley Cup playoff berth.

"I guess if I had been an American instead of a Canadian I would have accepted the Braves' offer. They told me I had a good chance of making the big leagues," he explained.

TOO SMALL?

Henry is five feet, 10 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He appears shorter and looks to weigh about 130. He was voted the NHL's rookie-of-the-year in 1954 but even then, he says, his slight build held him back.

"I guess some of the coaches thought I was too small for hockey. Naturally, even now I try to avoid too much body contact, but when it comes to getting the puck I don't let anything stand in my way."

With Providence of the American League last season, Henry was the circuit's top goal-scorer. The Rangers recalled him last month after he had scored 31 goals in 29 games.

"Of course, there is more stress on defence in the National League," said Henry. "The game's wide open in the minors. But some of the guys I knew in the minors are playing up here and that gives me more confidence, too."

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions: some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Lengthy Subsidies Opposed by Gibbs

Mollycoddling of Steel Industry Should Be Avoided, Says Liberal

The B.C. government should not mollycoddle an infant steel industry through long-term subsidies, P. A. Gibbs, Oak Bay Liberal MLA, said in the legislature Monday.

The member, however, did not oppose short term subsidies which the government will pay the first company to set up a basic iron and steel industry using B.C. ore.

It had been stated earlier, he said, that a smelter in B.C. would use up to about 100,000 tons of ore a year. He questioned whether B.C. could produce that much iron and steel at a price which would compete with eastern mills.

"I would like to ask why B.C. ore is not purchased by eastern mills," Mr. Gibbs said. "Is it due to the high cost of the B.C. product, or have freight rates something to do with it?"

Can B.C. Make Steel Profitably?

The Liberal member said eastern Canadian manufacturers used about 5,000,000 tons of ore a year, of which 4,000,000 tons were imported.

"I would like to know whether or not quality steel can be produced profitably from B.C. ore without importation of foreign ore," he said.

Mr. Gibbs had given only part of his speech when the House adjourned Monday evening. At the outset he asked for an adjournment so that he could open Tuesday, but Premier Bennett said, as the government was anxious to avoid night sittings, he would prefer the member to speak until 6 p.m.

Mr. Gibbs regretted the absence of Liberal leader Arthur Laing, who was defeated in the Sept. 19 provincial election, and said his judgment was "a great loss" to the people of British Columbia.

He added that if Premier Bennett had not "tampered" with the Elections Act he would have had only 23 seats instead of 39.

Turning to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, Mr. Gibbs said the premier had "misled" the people concerning its finances.

In quoting the gross operating profit, the premier had not given a true picture of PGE finances, he said.

Esquimalt Decides Controversial Issue Beyond Jurisdiction of Municipalities

Trading stamp curbs are beyond municipal authority, Esquimalt council decided Monday.

Acting on the advice of solicitors McIlreath and McIntyre, council will ask the Union of B.C. Municipalities to put the matter before the "appropriate authorities."

Victoria and Saanich councils have passed resolutions ordering licence inspectors to refuse licences to businesses planning to deal in trading stamps.

Oak Bay council has condemned trading stamps in principle but will seek legal advice on the issue.

UNWISE Although the stamps are illegal under the Criminal Code, a resolution against them would be "impractical and unwise," Esquimalt solicitors said.

Power contained in the Criminal Code can be exercised only after a conviction and there is no record of prosecutions since sections in the code governing trading stamps were passed in 1905.

Since municipalities are not empowered to pass criminal legislation, a stand against trading stamps would be "illegal and meaningless," W. R. Mc

O'Neil Resigns Saanich Council

Second Saanich council resignation within a month came Monday when first-term councillor T. J. O'Neill, 46, quit for health reasons.

Last month Coun. J. Ronald Grant, also with 11 months to serve of his first term, tendered his resignation because of a business move to Vancouver.

Acceptance of Coun. O'Neill's resignation by council Monday means two vacancies to be filled at a by-election March 9, date set by council for voting on School District 61's revised $1,470,000 building by-law.

He made a farewell plea for amalgamation.

BETTER FOR ALL

"I am more convinced, and in complete agreement with the rest, that the sooner we consider the matter of amalgamation of the urban part of Saanich with Victoria, the better off our ratepayers will be," said the councillor.

"Amalgamation . . . will result in more efficient services to the public in general.

"The matter of a joint municipal hall, if an agreement is reached, could be the beginning of a united Greater Victoria, and I sincerely hope that this will materialize."

For about two months last fall Coun. O'Neill was absent from the municipal scene because of illness.

WHERE BANDIT GOT $3,000

Out-of-the-way Canadian Bank of Commerce branch 100 feet from the southwest corner of Menzies on Superior, behind the Legislative Buildings, is where robbers got about $3,000 in armed hold-up Monday. MONTE ROBERTS

On Sunday I encountered a bicycle with a built-in radio. This may not come as news to you, but it did to me. Encountering a bicycle with a built-in radio is a brand-new experience, as far as I am concerned, and it left me in a state of considerable shock.

In the days when I propelled a bicycle from point "A" to point "B" (usually via points "C," "D," "E," and "Q"), I considered it a scientific triumph when the carbide headlight was replaced with a gadget which generated its own power by revolving against the rim of the wheel (if you pedaled actively enough).

But here I was, on Sunday, standing face to face with a bicycle producing lively music.

The owner of the bicycle, a bright-eyed, pleasant young man of about 13, name of Ken O'Cooley, was glad to demonstrate its talents.

"You turn the key here, you see," he explained, "and that turns the power on. The radio is built in underneath the drop bar; the battery is on the carrier over the rear wheel.

"You can see where the tuning dial and the power dial are," Ken added, pointing to the side of the drop bar.

"It's nothing but wonderful," I admired. "Christmas present, no doubt?"

"Oh, no, I earned it," said young Ken. "Won a carrier boys' contest."

"The Times, I trust?" I asked.

"Yes, it was," he said. "Why?"

"No reason," I lied, and watched, wistfully, as he peddled away in rhythm to the music.

As you might guess, I was not content to leave the matter there, so I had a chat with Roy Comrie, circulation officer manager of The Times, on Monday.

Yes, indeed, said Roy Comrie, Ken O'Cooley was awarded the bike for being top carrier-salesman in a recent contest.

"He earned it, he's a good boy," said Roy. "I hope he likes it. But as for me," went on Roy, "I'm not so sure about radio-equipped bikes."

"We were taking it around to the various sub-stations," he explained, "showing it to the boys before the contest opened."

"And at the very first sub-station, I made my pitch, saying what a fine bike it was, and how any boy would love to own it."

"So right at the climax of my little tale, I turned on the key to start the radio, and switched on full power, and an announcement blasted out like this:

"For the best in this, that, the other and everything, subscribe right now to the V-ne-tr Pre-ince."

I hope Ken O'Cooley is very, very happy with his radio bike.

I doubt Roy Comrie will ever offer another one.

CITY POLICE Constable George Buckle takes a description of the gun-wielding robber from bank teller Peter Margetts, 19, a few minutes after the hold-up. Margetts had the pistol thrust in his stomach and was warned to keep still.

men looking over his own car, and later West's car shortly before 9 a.m. One he could identify, he said.

West said his car may have run out of gas as the robbers made their getaway. He said the tank was nearly empty Saturday and he delayed buying gas until Monday after work because he thought there would be just enough to get him to work and to a service station.

Detectives went over the car for fingerprints Monday afternoon.

Nineteen-year-old Margetts told police the man jumped behind his wicket and said:

"This is a hold-up. No one move."

Watching the bank staff and two customers, he grabbed the loose cash, spilling it over the counter and floor as he jumped back over the counter, first warning manager J. H. McDermott, 543 St. Patrick, "Be quiet there, buddy."

The manager had moved toward a pistol in his desk drawer at the sound of the scuffle and seeing the robber on top of the counter.

The teller stood with his hands raised. Customers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight, 1021 Pendergast, also stood quietly.

"I was pretty frightened," said Mr. Knight.

"If I see this man again I won't have any trouble identifying him," Mr. McDermott said.

"I had a good look and I wouldn't miss him in a lineup."

Mr. Monteith said today he could "readily recall" the private bill referred to by Mr. Bonner and the name of his client, the petitioner.

"The ethics of my profession prohibit my revealing either," he said.

Mr. Monteith said that since he was appointed clerk in 1949 he had always made a point of informing the chairman of the Private Bills Committee of any bill in which he had been retained by the proponent or his solicitor.

Mr. Bonner had been chairman of the committee during at least one session, Mr. Monteith said.

"The situation disclosed by the attorney-general must obviously be known to him for years yet he conveniently 'discovers' it at this late date and announces it after scrupulously avoiding any chance of having it debated in the House."

NO NAME USED

Mr. Bonner told the legislature, "It is felt that this House is entitled to disinterested service from its officers and action to this end has been taken."

Mr. Monteith's name was not used in Mr. Bonner's statement. Reference was made only to the office he held.

Liberal George Gregory asked if the officer in question had been given an opportunity to give an explanation before he was dismissed.

Mr. Bonner, after conferring hastily with Premier Bennett, replied: "I am not able to answer that question precisely but the evidence itself is fair enough."

CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan then raised a question concerning the dismissal of former sergeant-at-arms Edgar A. Jamieson.

"In all fairness I suggest the attorney-general should also give a reason for his dismissal," Mr. Strachan said.

Premier Bennett rose to answer Mr. Strachan.

"The officer in question was not suspended by the Speaker because he had made a certain statement before a committee of this House. The Speaker advised all members of this House that he had asked the sergeant-at-arms if he made that statement."

Works crews are busy in Saanich making temporary repairs, filling pot-holes and building up sections that have crumbled as the frost came out of the ground.

Other surrounding municipalities are keeping a close watch on conditions.

ALL ISLAND ROADS 'FAIR' FOR DRIVING

All main roads on Vancouver Island were described today by the highways department as in "fair" condition for driving, with construction work still under way between Mile 11 and Mile 23 on the Malahat.

Speaker Irwin moved that the matter be dropped until a motion was properly brought before the House.

His suggestion was approved and the House went on to other business.

Pineapples---And Pearl Harbor

(Sixth in a series)

There are two tours in Honolulu which no visitor should miss—the Dole pineapple works and Pearl Harbor.

The man to look up at Dole is David Eyre, a former Time Magazine correspondent, one of the best newspapermen in the Pacific Northwest, and now director of public relations for the pineapple company.

He'll give you an ice-cold cup of pineapple juice in the attractive waiting-room, put you in charge of a pretty and intelligent guide named Norma, and send you merrily on your way.

The Dole plant is something of a landmark in Honolulu, having a water tower in the shape of a pineapple which holds 100,000 gallons of water and—so they say—not a single drop of pineapple juice.

The company turns out 720 million cans of pineapple products annually—40 per cent of Hawaii's output. Some 7,500 employees process the fruit of 30,000 nearby acres in an immaculate plant without ever touching it with the human hand.

Most impressive machine is the "Ginaca," named after the Dole engineer who invented it.

In one minute it can peel, core and trim 105 "pines," shooting them along to an assembly line where Japanese-Hawaiian women tend to the slicing and grading.

En route, your guide will stop to offer you a couple of rings of the "fancy" grade. And on the way out, they'll give you a booklet called "How You Can Give Hawaiian parties," full of recipes, table decorations and entertainment stunts, guaranteed to please the lady of the house.

There are two tours of Pearl Harbor—one commercial, which makes a small charge, and one by the U.S. Navy. The navy one is generally conceded to be the best, not only because a "Journalist, Third Class," gives a sprightly running commentary but because it gets closer to things.

"Anybody from Los Angeles on board?" the sailor inquires.

A few trusting souls raise their hands.

"Ah, there," says the sailor,

smiling innocently. "Now all together—take a nice, deep breath of that sweet, clean air."

Cameras are permitted, but you may take pictures only in two places—at the Arizona, where over 1,000 U.S. navy men were killed (and lay buried) on Dec. 7, 1941; and at the Utah.

Along the way, the navy tells a fascinating story of the "Day of Infamy," so that the tourists have the feeling of eye-witnessing a dark chapter in modern history. Dollar value of the present installation: $1½ billions, and it's a pretty safe bet that Pearl won't be surprised next time.

The "Journalist, Third Class" (and what other navy could produce a rate like that?) also points out a couple of destroyers at a jetty, to underline the demoralization of the fleet. One is named the Silverstein; the other, the McGinty.

Captain of the McGinty is an officer named Goodman. And the captain of the Silverstein is officer O'Reilly!

There are two tours of Pearl Harbor—one commercial, which makes a small charge, and one by the U.S. Navy. The navy one is generally conceded to be the best, not only because a "Journalist, Third Class," gives a sprightly running commentary but because it gets closer to things.

"Anybody from Los Angeles on board?" the sailor inquires.

A few trusting souls raise their hands.

WAY CLEARED FOR GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER GOLDSTREAM PARK

Greater Victoria Water District today cleared final technicalities which had blocked the transfer of city lands at Goldstream Park to the provincial government. The transfer was held up by water rights involvements. The way is now clear for transfer on the agreement the land, about 700 acres, is to be developed by the province as a park and camping area.

Pt. Alberni Man's Body Found Near Wreckage

RCMP have launched an investigation into the death of Elmer W. Milan, about 30, whose body was found today near his wrecked car below the Nanaimo highway about three miles from Port Alberni.

Search for a suspected female companion revealed nothing.

It appeared Milan had been driving away from Port Alberni and failed to round a curve. He had skidded, hit a guard rail, then traveled 36 feet on top of the guard rail before plunging down a 75-foot bank.

WHEELS IN CREEK

The car was found at 8:30 a.m. by Leroy Watson and Hugh Smythe, highways department employees, with the rear wheels in Rogers Creek and the front wheels on dry land. It was right side up.

Milan's mangled body apparently had been thrown clear as the car rolled, and was found 45 feet from the wreck.

WOMAN SEEN

Other highways department employees on patrol earlier in the morning said they had seen the car at 6:30 a.m. with a man and woman in it. It was parked beside the road with its engine running, and moved off when the truck light flashed on it, they said.

Search at the scene of the accident revealed a lady's glove near the car, and Rogers Creek was searched down as far as a natural obstruction, with no sign of any person.

Milan was not well known in the district, and is believed to have been either a logger or construction worker. Date for an inquest has not yet been set.

Water Board Refuses Lower Stumpage Rate

Greater Victoria Water Board today refused a request from Manning Timber Company to ease a contract agreement for logging on the Goldstream watershed.

Charles Rutan, appearing for the company, asked an average stumpage fee of $32.65 per 1,000 board feet be reduced by $10.

He said due to declining log prices since the contract to cut approximately 1,350,000 board feet was signed last April, his firm stands to lose heavily.

He said sales of timber at present are fetching his firm about $12 a thousand under the cost of logging.

$7,500 LOSS

The contract runs for another five months and if completed could cost the firm $7,500. If it withdraws from the water board contract it loses $5,200 deposit plus about $15,000 in logging subcontracts.

Members of the board expressed sympathy but pointed out two other logging firms, Moore-Whittington and Oak Bay Lumber have similar logging contracts.

Any concessions, if they could be made under statutes governing the water district, would be a precedent which would likely have to be repeated.

Value of the timber contract based on the 1,350,000 board feet estimate was $50,000. But the logging firm has already logged 1,642,000 and some 750,000 board feet remains to be cut in the specified area.

The water district has received $25,000 stumpage to date and stands to collect another $30,000 if the contract is completed.

$20 in Fines In Test Case On TV Aerials

Edward Drew TV Ltd., 745 View, which lost a test case last week against a city by-law passed 19 years ago, was fined in city police court today a total of $20 on counts of erecting antennae without building permits.

Two other similar charges against the firm were withdrawn at the request of city prosecutor Alan Bigelow in view of the case being a test of a city by-law.

The firm was convicted by Magistrate H. C. Hall on one charge last Friday. It pleaded guilty to another today, and was fined $10 on each count.

In its defence, the firm argued there was nothing specific in the by-law to cover TV antennae. It claimed the by-law only applied to radio masts and antennae.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What besides income tax does the federal government take from the public of British Columbia?—W.E.S.

A. Under the current tax rental agreement, the province has assigned its personal and corporation income tax and succession duty levies to Canada in return for an annual payment which is adjusted for growth in provincial population and the gross national product. In summary, therefore, only Canada is levying income and succession duty taxes in B.C. today.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

A. questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

In My Roaming Downtown I Found All Sorts of Buys

By PENNY SAVER

Everything, but everything has a cover of some sort. I came to this great conclusion after wandering around town in search of bargains for you readers. I found covers for chairs, covers for sports equipment, covers for hats, covers for food ... shall I go on, or have you the picture? First I saw golf club covers. They come in set of three for $2.99, a special price for you lucky golfers. They're of natural leather, well-made and designed to last. It might be a good idea to tuck a set or two away for HIS birthday, or, turning the tables for the occasion, present a set to him on St. Valentine's Day.

More "undercover" stuff—here are plastic sofa covers to protect the upholstery, or to keep dust off while you're off on a trip. These are $2.89 each. Next on the list is a contour mattress cover. It fits snugly, and, of course, does a wonderful job of keeping your mattresses like new. The price—$1.98. There are regular mattress covers with zippers, at $3.69.

Now the mattress is neatly covered, you can start on that comfy comforter that you just hate to part with. The fact that the cover is getting a bit faded or worn doesn't mean you have to throw or give it away. Buy a new cover for it. They come in soft, printed lawn with inset bands and binding of satin in the print's predominant color. Gold, green, pink, maroon and blue are available. These comforter covers are really attractive, and cost $8.49 each.

Last, but not least, are covers for ... you? Yes, I've found, on sale at a wonderfully low price, down-filled sleeping bags. For summertime camping trip, these nylon encased sleeping bags are cosy and warm. You'll save a few dollars by buying now, and when the warm weather rolls around, you'll be glad you looked ahead.

A St. Valentine's Day hint for you men: "To My Valentine" chocolates, in a gay, red embossed heart-shaped box, all be-ribboned and pretty. The boxes come in many sizes, from $1.35 through $2.50, $3.50, $5 and $10.

Call me at 23131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned here in the column today or during past weeks.

Books Given to New Chapel

Project of placing hymn and prayer books for two denominations in the new Veterans' Hospital chapel was concluded. Mrs. N. Baadsvik told the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, at a recent meeting.

Mrs. M. Bennett presided. Mrs. V. Barry said 27 visits had been made to the sick during the month. Three new members, Mrs. Helen Hunter, Mrs. Mary Gagnier and Mrs. Jean Petrie were initiated and social chairman Mrs. D. Kissinger reported on plans for the annual Mother's Day tea.

Plans were completed for a Valentine dance next Saturday in the club auditorium. Report of the provincial com-

Berkeley-Hemsworth Wedding in Courtenay

St. George's United Church, Courtenay, was scene recently of a lovely double-ring ceremony in which June Beverley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hemsworth, Sandwick, B.C., and Robert Drew, only son of Mrs. R. Rae, Sr., D. Berkeley, were wed. Rev. Frank Johnson officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of white lace and net posed over satin. A lace jacket featured lily point sleeves and a sequin embroidered Peter Pan collar. Sparkling sequins outlined the pointed lace bodice. Insets which extended into the full skirt: Her chapel length veil of illusion net edged with lace misted softly from a pearl encrusted tiara. She carried a cascade bridal bouquet of red and white roses.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. George Bergsma, who wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow net over satin topped with a matching lace bolero. She carried a bouquet of blue and yellow flowers and wore a bandeau of yellow blossoms in her hair. Miss Marjorie Creasser was bridesmaid, in a blue net over satin multi-tiered ballerina-length dress. She carried a blue and yellow bouquet and wore a bandeau of blue flowers in her hair. Sheila Watkins, niece of the groom, was tiny flower girl, in a full-length frock of pink embossed nylon over pink taffeta. Her hair-bandeau was of pink flowers and her bouquet of mixed flowers.

The groom had Melvin Strand as best man, and ushers were George Bergsma and Dwight Clayton.

During the signing of the register, Les Ross sang "O Perfect Love." Accompanist was D. Arnott, organist.

A reception was held at the Flamingo Room, where guests were received by the newlyweds and their families. Mrs. Hemsworth wore a navy lace dress with navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Rae chose a brown suit with beige accessories and a pink carnation corsage. A miniature bride and groom in a lace heart topped the ornately decorated three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table. Roy Clayton was master of ceremonies, and Sam Beck proposed the toast to the bride. Serving guests were Misses Naida Johnson, Gerry Ellison, Mrs. J. Gollick, Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. M. Strand, Mrs. B. Ralston, Mrs. B. Watkins, Mrs. J. Pritchard and Mrs. D. Clayton.

For her honeymoon trip to Vancouver, the new Mrs. Berkeley wore a fitted suit of green tweed with brown and white accessories. A corsage of yellow carnations completed her ensemble.

A Valentine's Day Treat Are Fancy Cupid's Tarts

These cupid's tarts are high-fashion, fancy, flavorful desserts. Your table will sparkle with sentiment when you serve them on a large platter surrounding a jumbo red heart-shaped candle.

Make the pastry by lining either the inside or outside of a heart-shaped gelatin mold. Bake them as you do regular pastry and cool before adding the rich, creamy and tangy lemon mixture.

You can melt the hardest heart when you serve hot tea and cupid's tarts.

CUPID'S TARTS

1½ cups sugar, 5 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups milk, 2 egg yolks, ½ cup fresh lemon juice, grated peel of 1 lemon, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and milk in saucepan; cook over medium heat until smooth and translucent or about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in slightly beaten egg yolks and return to stove. Cook at low heat, stirring constantly, for another 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon juice, grated peel, and butter. Allow to cool. Pour into baked heart-shaped pastry shells or individual tart shells. Top with meringue.

Meringue: Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice to 2 egg whites. Beat until frothy, gradually add four tablespoons granulated sugar, and continue beating until whites are stiff.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN

Insight on Immigration Situation Highlight of 63rd Annual Gathering

During Monday afternoon's session of the Local Council of Women's annual meeting in the YWCA, guest speaker D. H. Bray, Department of Immigration, gave an outline of the present immigration situation.

The policy of the immigration department, first initiated by Prime Minister MacKenzie King in 1947, states: "... it is the policy of the government to foster the growth of the population of Canada by the encouragement of immigration, ensuring careful selection and permanent settlement of such numbers of immigrants as can advantageously be absorbed in our national economy."

Mr. Bray explained that the economic development of our country determines the number of immigrants and the trades needed.

There are two plans in operation for those coming to Canada. One is for those paying their own way, and the other for those who cannot pay passage but are desirable immigrants. During the first year, the latter receive government aid.

The Hungarian situation, Mr. Bray said, called for a different policy again, using emergency measures. "Hungarians coming to this country had not prepared their trip as regular immigrants would have," he said. "In many cases they have only the clothes on their back when they arrive."

In closing, the guest speaker assured members that "the present immigration policy is well thought out and the department is trying to get the best type of people into Canada."

New officers for the coming year were announced as follows: Re-elected president, Mrs. E. L. Johns; first vice-president, Mrs. A. J. Butterfield; second, Mrs. B. M. Thomas; third, Mrs. Bert Noel; fourth, Mrs. Maude Gordon; fifth, Mrs. Nancy Smith; sixth, Mrs. H. A. Arnold; recording secretary, Mrs. May Campbell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Marion Storey; treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Mortimer; arts and letters chairman, Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie; economics and taxation, Mrs. H. S. Clark; health and welfare, Dr. Marian Sherman; professions for women and law, Miss Storey; and archivist, Mrs. Blair Reid.

Mrs. Elsie Shepherd, secretary of Victoria Town Planning Commission, gave a talk on the proposed parliament buildings extension.

Other reports included: WA of Church of England in Canada, British Columbia Diocese, Mrs. Bates; Victoria Women's Institute, Mrs. McEwen; King's Daughters of Victoria, Mrs. Lawrence; Metropolitan Church, WA, Mrs. J. A. Lamont; St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild, Mrs. Mary MacPherson; Saanich CCF Women's Council, Mrs. Margaret Burton; Victoria Social Credit WA, Mrs. Nancy Smith; University Women's Club, Mrs. Ellen Hart; Victoria CCF Women's Council, Mrs. Daisy Sterling; VON, Mrs. Lawson; Women's Canadian Club, Miss Jessie Gordon; YWCA, Miss Marion Small, and Native Daughters of B.C., Mrs. Pomeroey.

Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie reported on the recreative arts, and Mrs. Jonsson told of the Goodwill Enterprises.

Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. W. B. Mortimer, showed receipts, $393.40 and disbursements, $196.86.

Sessions carried on today, with the afternoon highlight an address by Glen Hamilton, chairman of the Silver-Thread Services.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions on a select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The younger who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia. Canadian edition and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to David Arkovich, aged 10, of Sioux City, Iowa, for his question:

How Do One-Celled Animals Get Their Food?

You have a mouth to eat with, teeth to chew, taste buds to taste, all sorts of muscles to help you swallow and a stomach to digest your food. Your body is made of millions of little boxes called cells. Some cells are built to do one job, some another. You have skin cells, muscle cells, nerve cells, bone cells, blood cells, liver cells and even brain cells. The one-celled animal has only one cell to do all that is needed. It cannot afford to specialize and so it becomes a jack-of-all-trades.

Andy's favorite one-celled animal is the brave little amoeba. This tiny creature is usually too small for our eyes to see. Its one cell is a blob of jelly in a coat of soft, colorless jelly. Yet that one cell can move about, breathe, hunt, choose the right food, eat and digest it.

There are countless kinds of one-celled animals. They live in different surroundings and feed on different diets. Most of them, however, feed very much as the amoeba feeds. To this little fellow, eating is part of walking and his feet can become a mouth whenever he chooses. What's more, he can make himself a stomach in any part of his body, use it to digest a dinner and get rid of it when the job is done.

Let's watch him on a hunting trip. A finger of jelly flows from his body in this direction and another in that direction. These are called his pseudopods, meaning phoney-feet. There may be four or five of them and Mr. Amoeba looks like a colorful blot of ink. The phoneyfeet are searching for food. One touches a tiny speck of sand. The amoeba senses that this is not food-how he knows we are not sure.

The phoney-foot that touched the sand withdraws and flows back into the amoeba's body of jelly. No sense in going further in that direction! Ah! One of the phoneyfeet has touched a fragment of floating plant. Or is it a tiny bacteria? The body of jelly now organizes itself in that direction. Another foot flows out and the morsel of food is surrounded. The two feet form a mouth and before you know it, the amoeba has flowed right around his dinner. It is now inside.

The food inside is trapped in a pocket called a food vacuole along with a speck of water. In the hazy jelly there are chemicals called enzymes. They get busy and start to digest the food and water packed into the temporary stomach. The nourishment and goodness from the food is taken where the amoeba needs it to keep in good health. But parts of the food cannot be digested and remain in the food vacuole.

Meantime the food vacuole is moving right through the hazy jelly of the amoeba's body. Soon it reaches the outside edge of the jelly. The little amoeba simply flows away from it, leaving the waste material behind it. Meantime, other pseudopods are constantly flowing out in search of more food. When times are good, the amoeba may have three or four food vacuoles at different stages of digestion in his body at one time.

CENSORSHIP PROBE ASKED

'Baby Doll' Banning Stupid---Strachan

Reasons given by the provincial censor for banning the movie "Baby Doll" were described by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in the legislature Monday as "absolutely ridiculous."

The controversial film, based on a play by Tennessee Williams, was first approved by the censor and later banned because of the "publicity" surrounding it.

"What sort of mind could think up such a stupid reason," said Mr. Strachan.

"When that sort of situation comes about it is time we objected," he said.

The CCF leader's remarks brought Premier Bennett to his feet, asking: "Do you want to abolish censorship?"

"Not necessarily," Mr. Strachan replied.

His answer was greeted with a cry of "hedging" from the government back benches.

The censorship situation in the province should be thoroughly investigated, the Opposition leader said.

The ideal form of censorship is self-imposed, he said.

The company will complete its performance here Wednesday night, and move on to Lethbridge next week, and later to Trail, Vancouver, Seattle and Wenatchee, Wash., and Butte, Mont.

DID ROBBERS FLEE VIA THIS ROUTE?

This is route armed bandits who got nearly $3,000 in hold-up of Menzies and Superior branch of Canadian Bank of Commerce Monday afternoon are believed to have taken. Get-away car went east on Superior to Blanshard, north to Courtney, east to Quadra, north to View and west on View. Car was found on the north side of the street a few feet from Quadra. (Times Photo.)

Two Definite Suspects Hunted in Bank Raid

DUNCAN TRIAL

Accused Said 'I Killed Him' Police Claim

(Special to the Times)
NANAIMO — Arrest of Thomas Sidney Symes on a charge of murdering Paul Richard Powling in Duncan New Year's Day was described today for an Assize Court jury by RCMP Sgt. W. J. Currie.

Symes pleaded not guilty when the trial opened Monday before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson. The shooting took place in the room of Symes' estranged wife in a Duncan boarding house.

Sgt. Currie submitted the following written statement, which he said had been made by Symes after all due warnings had been given, and which had been signed by Symes:

BEST FRIEND
"I shot Paul. I killed him. There is no question about that. He was at one time my best friend. He beat me out of my family."

Accused made no protest when he was arrested at 1 p.m. New Year's Day, Sgt. Currie said.

"I put my hand on his shoulder," Sgt. Currie said. "The accused said, 'I will come. I have killed a man, but you are not dealing with a mad dog.'"

SIGNED STATEMENT
After Symes had been given the usual warning, he dictated and signed the statement, Sgt. Currie said.

Cpl. Eugene D. Westhaver, RCMP firearms expert, said the bullet that had killed Powling had been fired from a gun borrowed from Symes' nephew before the shooting.

Admissibility of a further oral statement made by Symes to Sgt. Currie after the arrest was still under review by Mr. Justice Wilson, with the jury absent, when the court adjourned at noon.

By AB KENT

Two definite suspects of Monday's Bank of Commerce hold-up at Menzies and Superior are sought by city police, although no one has been taken into custody.

An armed robber leaped the teller's counter at 2:30 p.m., scooped up close to $3,000 in loose cash, jumped back over the counter and got away with an accomplice at the wheel of a stolen car, recovered at 3:10 p.m. downtown.

It is believed the pair left the city. Transportation checks made following the robbery, third major hold-up since Jan. 1, failed to turn up anyone fitting the gun-wielder's description.

"Bank officials hesitated to say how much money was taken by the slight, dirty-appearing, 24 or 25-year-old robber who stuck a .38-calibre pistol in the stomach of teller Peter Margetta to demand cash.

The amount missing is closer to $3,000 than the earlier estimated $1,000, it was learned.

Suburban police departments and RCMP are co-operating with city police in the hunt.

Employees of the bank described the bandit as five feet, 11 inches tall, weighing 140-150 pounds and wearing a charcoal grey suit that looked as if it had been slept in.

He wore a dark hat and black gloves and had dark, horn-rimmed glasses. His complexion was dark.

There was no description of the man at the wheel of the escape car. He remained outside the bank.

Employees rushed to front windows to get the car licence number and police found the auto near View and Quadra.

It was owned by R. A. West, 4065 Carey, who had left it with keys in the ignition parked about 100 feet from where he works on North Park.

Always Leaves Keys in His Car
He had heard of the hold-up only a few minutes before, and was unaware that his car was missing until contacted by police.

Mr. West said he had been parking his car in the same spot for 12 years and always put his lunch bucket in it at 1 p.m., the last time he saw the car Monday afternoon.

The car, a grey, 1949 five-passenger Meteor, was always left with keys in it.

Mr. West is employed by Drysdale Sash and Door Co., Ltd., 1720 Cook, which has access on North Park where Mr. West left his car.

F. J. Findlay, proprietor of George Rapid Shoe Repairs, 1052 North Park, opposite the spot where West's car was parked, said Monday was the first day "in years" he missed West putting his lunch bucket in the car.

He said he noticed two young

REWARD FOR WILSON ARREST UNDER STUDY

An investigation is under way by the Canadian Bankers' Association to determine whether a reward will be paid to TCA traffic agent J. Reid Hannan for his part in helping to apprehend bank robber Leonard Wilson.

Wilson got five years in the penitentiary for a hold-up at the Douglas Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Jan. 7, and theft of $1,320.

He was apprehended in Seattle because Mr. Hannan had noted his unusual behavior at Patricia Bay Airport.

The association authorized rewards up to $5,000. Its action in the Hannan case was prompted by an independent report.

City lawyer W. Berkeley Monteith said today if Attorney-General Robert Bonner believes he acted unethically in his capacity of legislative law clerk, a report should be made to the B.C. Law Society.

Mr. Monteith claimed that the attorney-general had "blemished my professional reputation" with a statement made in the House Monday.

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Monteith was fired because "on more than one occasion" he acted in a private capacity on behalf of persons petitioning the Legislature's Private Bills Committee.

Mr. Monteith said today, "I want to have my say in court."

In a prepared statement he said: "... if my behaviour has been of such a character as to involve a serious breach of ethical conduct, as is implied, why is it that the attorney-general, who is ex-officio a member of the Law Society, has neglected to report it to that body."

"I demand that he do so," Mr. Monteith said that as a professional man, his biggest asset was his reputation.

He charged that the attorney-general's statement was made "with complete and typical disregard for every rule of the House."

The attorney-general "in effect has announced a judgment already decided without any charge made or hearing held and in the absence of the person most concerned—myself," Mr. Monteith said.

BRITAIN SETS DATE TO JOIN TRADE BLOC

PARIS (Reuters)—Britain today made a "decisive offer" to give up her insular position and join the European continent in a free trade area within six months.

At the same time, Britain denied she is dreaming of "a third force" to rival the Soviet Union or the United States.

Trade Minister Sir David Eccles stated the British position at the opening session of a 17-nation conference aimed at promoting free trade through Western Europe.

Canadian and U.S. delegations attended.

Supports U.S. Scheme as Behind-Scene Talks at UN Seek to End Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Britain today threw its support behind the new United States compromise plan to settle the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock.

The endorsement came from a British spokesman as U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., conferred with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, Canada's external affairs minister L. B. Pearson, and others active in behind-the-scenes negotiations.

Lodge previously had talked with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi about the plan which State Secretary Dulles presented Monday to the Israeli ambassador.

Under the plan, the United States agreed to give public support to the principle of free shipping in the Gulf of Aquaba and to use its influence to get UN forces into the Gaza Strip. It was hoped these commitments would give Israel the assurances it wanted before agreeing to withdraw Israeli forces back across the 1949 armistice lines.

DEMANDS PROBE BY LAW SOCIETY

City lawyer W. Berkeley Monteith said today if Attorney-General Robert Bonner believes he acted unethically in his capacity of legislative law clerk, a report should be made to the B.C. Law Society.

Mr. Monteith claimed that the attorney-general had "blemished my professional reputation" with a statement made in the House Monday.

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Monteith was fired because "on more than one occasion" he acted in a private capacity on behalf of persons petitioning the Legislature's Private Bills Committee.

Mr. Monteith said today, "I want to have my say in court."

In a prepared statement he said: "... if my behaviour has been of such a character as to involve a serious breach of ethical conduct, as is implied, why is it that the attorney-general, who is ex-officio a member of the Law Society, has neglected to report it to that body."

"I demand that he do so," Mr. Monteith said that as a professional man, his biggest asset was his reputation.

He charged that the attorney-general's statement was made "with complete and typical disregard for every rule of the House."

The attorney-general "in effect has announced a judgment already decided without any charge made or hearing held and in the absence of the person most concerned—myself," Mr. Monteith said.

Mutual Arms Ban With West Key To 6-Point Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov announced today that Russia has proposed to the Western Big Three a mutual hands-off program in the Middle East.

Shepilov told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, that the Russian government had transmitted a six-point proposal in notes to the ambassadors of Britain, the United States and France.

Shepilov said in effect the Soviet is ready to stop sending arms to the Middle East if the Western powers will do likewise and will abandon their military bases there.

The six points were:

"1. The maintenance of peace in the Near and Middle East through settling disputed questions exclusively by peaceful means by negotiations.
"2. Non-interference in the internal affairs of the Near and Middle East; respect of the sovereignty and independence of these countries.
"3. Renounce any attempts to include these countries in military blocs with the participation of the great powers (a direct slap at the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact but not at the Arab League alliance which Egypt has been promoting).

"4. The liquidation of foreign bases and the withdrawal of foreign troops from the territories of the countries of the Near and Middle East.
"5. The mutual renunciation of the supply of arms to countries of the Near and Middle East.
"6. Co-operation toward the economic development of the countries of the Near and Middle East without making any political, military or other conditions whatsoever incompatible with the dignity and sovereignty of these countries."

One authoritative source, noting Shepilov's call for a ban on Middle East arms deliveries, recalled persistent reports that Russian arms are regularly arriving in Egypt.

The French foreign ministry said the Soviet proposals warranted full consideration but apparently contained nothing "concrete."

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said it was an obvious move to discredit Eisenhower's anti-Communist program. Hagerty talked with the president after the president had conferred by telephone with State Secretary Dulles.

Shepilov said the most urgent Middle East question is "the complete withdrawal of Israeli troops from Egyptian territory," and that Russia supports Egypt's "just demand for full compensation of the damage caused" by the British-French-Israeli attacks on Egypt. Shepilov also lined up again with Cairo's demand that Egypt alone control and operate the Suez Canal. He said "law and justice are wholly on Egypt's side."

The Soviet foreign minister said his government believes "war is not fatalistically inevitable."

Peaceful coexistence between communism and Western capitalism was still "the cornerstone of the foreign policy of the Soviet state."

WE MUST ALL TAKE SOME BLAME FOR INFLATION
Social Credit Playing Politics Over Tight Money, Says Strachan

CCF Leader Robert Strachan today accused the Social Credit government of trying to make "political capital" by attacking the federal government's tight money policies.

Mr. Strachan, opening the Opposition attack in the legislature Throne Speech debate, said the federal government is not solely responsible for present inflationary trends.

"We all have some responsibility," he said, "therefore we must all take some of the blame, and belaboring the federal government or Bank of Canada or the chartered banks or the industrial enterprises or labor will not solve the problem."

"Something more is required today," he said, "than a mere tearing down of the Opposition leader told Premier Bennett."

Mr. Strachan described recent exchanges between provincial cabinet ministers and federal government officials over the best methods to run the economy as "slapstick vaudeville."

"But nowhere have I heard Social Credit say what they would do—they just condemn others," Mr. Strachan said.

Unless inflation is curbed, the life savings of many people will be wiped out, he said.

The CCF leader suggested that Premier Bennett called the election last fall with "break-neck speed" because of a fear of a period of depression and unemployment was ahead.

But during the campaign the premier "stumped the length and

Smith chased the gunman into the Trinity Episcopal Rectory, occupied by Miss Freeland, a sister of the former resident minister who died about a year ago.

Pickwickian Air Permeates House —For the Moment

There is a Pickwickian air as yet about the present session of British Columbia's legislature. No angry words, no bitter retorts, but rather the kind of cheery badinage you might expect to be tossed back and forth by the members of Charles Dickens' illustrious Pickwick Club seated around their merry festive board.

The fireworks no doubt will come later.

Meanwhile, Mr. Pickwick himself almost materialized in the House Monday in the good-natured personage of P. Archie Gibbs, Liberal member for Oak Bay, as he gently chided former members of the older parties for swelling the Social Credit ranks to 39 out of 52 seats.

"Look at them!" said Mr. Gibbs, but without a hint of malice in his voice, "16 ex-Tories, nine renegade CCFers, seven renegade Liberals—and only seven genuine Social Crediters."

Mr. "Pickwick" Gibbs then reminded the laughing House that he and his Liberal colleague, George Gregory, had their backs to the wall (in the second row of the opposition).

And, proceeding to the tune of The Charge of the Light Brigade, he talked of cannons to the right of them, cannons to the left of them and, of course, cannons to the front of them (meaning the government).

Asselstine Promised 'Something'

He understood the honorable member for Atlin (ex-Liberal cabinet minister W. J. Asselstine) had been promised "something" in the Social Credit cabinet. (Cries of "no, no.")

Did the honorable member deny this? The honorable member did. He rose on a point of order to say he had never been promised anything.

Mr. Gibbs was gratified to hear the honorable member's honorable denial. But he would not be put down. He did not think Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition would be much concerned about defeating the government. That would come from without. The House knew what had happened to a former Coalition government. And what was this but a coalition of renegades from other parties?

Even the fiery CCF Opposition seemed infected with this Pickwick mood as they rose, one after another, to chide the government for not promising increased aid to the University of British Columbia in the Throne speech.

Looking rather like Micawber, loquacious bald-pated Leo Nimsick from Cranbrook said he hoped something would "turn up" in the budget. He declared the university was now so crowded there were seven students per wash basin.

"How many girls per

phone?" interrupted Premier Bennett, who was also in Pickwickian mood.

After the style of Scrooge's good-natured nephew, Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) appealed to the government not to be "stingy" in providing for poor students.

CCF leader Robert Strachan talked of slapstick comedy between Victoria and Ottawa and said each was metaphorically "sticking its tongue out" at the other through the press.

He asked for a complete financial statement on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, and this produced a light-hearted reproof from Archie Gibbs.

"I always consider it my special privilege to call for returns on the PGE," Mr. Gibbs said. "The honorable leader of the Opposition has encroached on my preserves."

In the midst of all this good humor, it was surprising not to hear from the San Weller of the legislature—the elfin, 82-year-old Tom Uphill from Fernie.

Mr. Uphill bounced around in his chair on the Opposition side of the House, scowled at formidable-looking documents on his desk and exchanged furtive whispers with his neighbor, Leo Nimsick.

This is ominous. Mr. Uphill has been in the House for 37 consecutive years. He must be saving up for something.

Palace 'Botched' Rift Rumors Says Mirror—'Finished Tea' First

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters) — Two mass-circulation newspapers today condemn in outspoken editorials the official handling of U.S. press reports alleging a rift between the queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The tabloid Daily Mirror accuses the cabinet, the Queen's advisers and Buckingham Palace officials of having "botched" the affair by not issuing a firm denial.

The newspaper repeats its call to the duke to "kill the rumors stone dead" by flying home immediately from Gibraltar, where he is scheduled to remain this week before joining the Queen for a state visit to Portugal.

The Daily Herald, official Labor party organ, asserts that "scandalous injustice has been done to the Queen, the Duke, and to this country by the ineptitude with which this matter has been handled."

Peterborough, columnist in the right-wing Daily Telegraph, says this is not the first time American newspapers have commented on the private lives of the Royal Family. "Their conjectures have lacked both truth and taste," he adds.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, in an interview with Mrs. Joan Graham, London correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, who filed the first "rift" report, quotes the 38-year-old Mrs. Graham as saying: "I personally didn't think it would have such a snowball effect, but I do not apologize for reporting rumors."

"If you are a foreign correspondent it is your duty to report rumors."

The Daily Mirror says of "people upstairs" . . . "They finished their tea and assigned a minor Buckingham Palace official to issue a curt denial. . . . Not to the British press or the Commonwealth press, but to the Americans."

breadth of the province predicting unending prosperity if only the people would re-elect his Social Credit government."

INEFFECTIVE

Mr. Strachan said continuation of present controls by the government and the Bank of Canada will be ineffective.

The heavy rate of investment expenditures cannot be appreciably slowed down through regulation of bank credit, he said.

Higher interest rates are not a deterrent to corporate borrowings because higher borrowing costs are more than offset by the high level of corporate profits.

Also corporations deduct interest payments for income tax purposes so that higher borrowing costs are largely written off.

It is municipalities which find it much more difficult to borrow as a result of the tighter money policy, Mr. Strachan said.

profits must be reduced and depreciation allowances altered if we are to meet the danger of inflation.

Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States must also be corrected if this country is to avoid being vulnerable to any shift in United States policy or conditions. The provincial government should take a more active role in controlling the economy by entering the insurance and housing fields.

Governments capital for these purposes could be handled through treasury branches, which Mr. Strachan earlier recommended be created to assist farmers with long-term, low-interest loans.

An important announcement from the Kellogg Company

By George M. Johnston
President, Kellogg Company
of Canada

BEFORE our founder, W. K. Kellogg, died in 1951, he had a great concept about a new cereal. He believed that valuable properties of other foods could be combined with those of the grains in such a way as to produce a high-quality protein food in a delicious new cereal form.

For over 4 years, we at Kellogg's worked hand in hand with leading nutritionists on this project.

Out of it has come an achievement that is perhaps the greatest in our history. Special K.

This new cereal food is an unusual combination of nourishing grains and other natural foods including milk and yeast.

It's a ready-to-eat cereal containing 20% protein

You can start babies on it, feed it to "growing ups" and benefit from it yourself. It is ideal for older people because of its unique, easy-eating qualities, its high-quality protein content. And because Special K contains only 4/10 of 1% fat, it is highly recommended for use in slimming diets.

It has a combination of vitamins specified for us by the nutritionists who worked with us as being most needed by most people.

Yet, the surprising thing is that with all its nutritional properties—this is probably as enjoyable a cereal as anyone has ever put into his mouth. It's not quite a puff, not quite a flake, but I can assure you, it's unusually tempting to eat.

You may be interested in knowing what happened when this new high-protein cereal was sent out in a plain package to several thousand people whose opinions are rather important to us—people just like you.

To begin with, 4 out of 5 started off by saying how much they like its taste:

A dietician said: "This cereal is the answer to my plea for more protein in the diet of my patients. And—they like it very much."

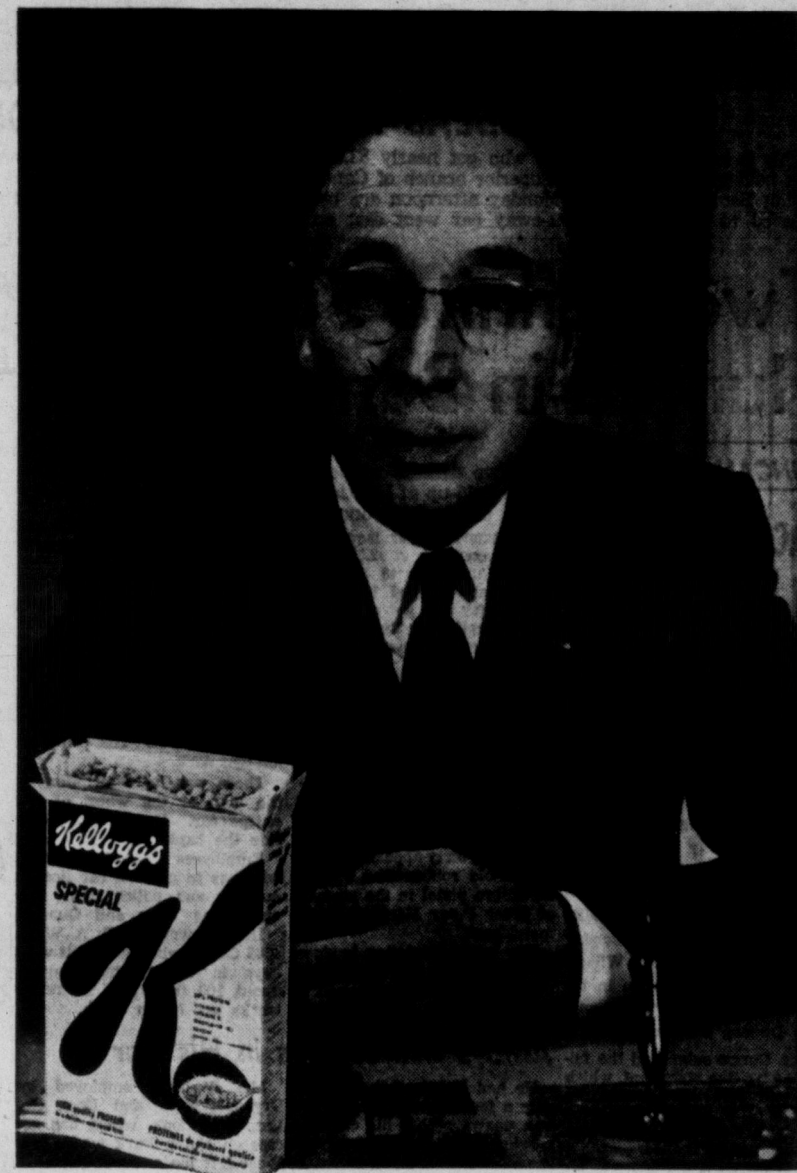

A food editor stated: "It's amazing that a cereal with so much solid nourishment could be so light and tasty."

We're calling this new cereal our "Special K" because we feel the big red "K" in our trade mark is more or less our coat of arms.

Special K is on hand now at most grocers'. We want you to try it for its unusual flavor and excellent nutritional benefits. We particularly address this invitation to people who haven't been eating cereals too frequently.

We feel sure you'll enjoy Special K, for breakfast and any time of day you want something wholesome and delicious.

Plans for a campaign which may eventually make more territory available to hunters were endorsed during a meeting of the Vancouver Island Amalgamated Fish and Game Associations at Nanaimo Sunday.

Attended by delegates from nine Island clubs, the meeting voted to support a motion from the Cowichan club to press for the opening of Vancouver Island watersheds for recreational purposes.

A small portion of the Nanaimo watershed was available to the public last year, but most of the others are closed for recreational purposes although some have allowed industrial operations.

The proposal suggested that regulations vary according to conditions at each watershed. It was felt that the public was being deprived of more potential recreational areas than was necessary to safeguard water supplies.

Also endorsed by the meeting were two Nanaimo proposals, aimed at protecting remaining wildlife resources in the face of industrial development, which will be placed before the provincial game convention at Nelson in May.

The Island clubs will ask for a change in the method of granting water rights, suggesting that a board, which would include a representative of fish and game interests, be created to rule on future applications for water rights.

They will also ask the B.C. convention to support a motion that the new Department of Recreation and Conservation be empowered to write in terms to protect wildlife in any new forest management licences.

An Alberni proposal that angling licences be required for all sports fishing, suggesting the present resident and non-resident licences and fees for angling in non-tidal waters be retained but cover all types of fishing, was adopted in a close vote.

Fred Marshall of Nanaimo, president of the Island association, and Sid Richards of Alberni were named as delegates to the B.C. convention. Tom Jones, Alberni, was named as an alternate delegate.

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Alberni, Campbell River, Chemainus, Cowichan, Nanaimo, Parksville, Qualicum, Ladysmith and Victoria clubs.

Next meeting of the association was set for May 8 at Nanaimo.

AMBITIOUS HOLD-UP MEN GET LITTLE BUT TEARS

BOSTON (AP)—A burglar gang intent on stealing the weekend receipts of two capacity hockey games, a full-house basketball game and the Tony Demarco-Gaspar Ortega fight, fled Boston Garden under tear gas Monday with only $3,000.

Garden officials said the robbers apparently sought all the receipts from the sporting events—probably as much as $100,000.

The burglars—believed to number seven—tied up an 81-year-old watchman and cracked a five-inch-thick safe with acetylene torches only to be met by a blast of tear gas from a protective device inside.

SIX-MONTH ULTIMATUM

Bums Said Mulling Los Angeles Move

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily News says Brooklyn Dodgers will shift their franchise—likely to Los Angeles—unless they are assured within the next six months of getting a new ball park.

In the first of a three-part newspaper series under sports writer Dick Young's by-line, the newspaper quotes Dodger president Walter O'Malley as saying:

"During the next six months I shall pursue a policy of watchful waiting. If, at the end of that time, the show is not on the road, and it is obvious that we are not to have a stadium, then I will have to make other arrangements."

"Subtract six months from three years, the length of the Dodgers' lease in Ebbets Field, and you have 2½ years left. I can't wait beyond that. It would require 2½ years to build a stadium elsewhere."

The news defines "elsewhere" as Los Angeles.

The newspaper says the series is an attempt to answer the question of whether the city is serious about building a 50,000-seat, all-year sports centre in Brooklyn, which would house the Dodgers.

O'Malley, who was not available for comment on the story, said previously he would like to keep the Dodgers in Brooklyn—but that a new park, with ample parking space, is a necessity.

Rangers Also Pleased Camille Picked Hockey

NEW YORK (AP)—A scrawny-looking Canadian youngster who might have made the grade as a shortstop for Milwaukee Braves is giving New York Rangers a lift in their battle to win a National Hockey League playoff position.

"I'm sure glad I chose hockey over baseball," says centre Camille Henry. "I think I'm up in this league to stay now."

In his last three games, the 23-year-old native of Quebec City has scored eight points, including three goals. He had a vital goal and assisted on another Sunday night as the Rangers beat Montreal Canadiens, 5-4, to take over sole possession of fourth place—the final Stanley Cup playoff berth.

"I guess if I had been an American instead of a Canadian I would have accepted the Braves' offer. They told me I had a good chance of making the big leagues," he explained.

TOO SMALL?

Henry is five feet, 10 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He appears shorter and looks to weigh about 130. He was voted the NHL's rookie-of-the-year in 1954 but even then, he says, his slight build held him back.

"I guess some of the coaches thought I was too small for hockey. Naturally, even now I try to avoid too much body contact, but when it comes to getting the puck I don't let anything stand in my way."

With Providence of the American League last season, Henry was the circuit's top goal-scorer. The Rangers recalled him last month after he had scored 31 goals in 29 games.

Lengthy Subsidies Opposed by Gibbs

Mollycoddling of Steel Industry Should Be Avoided, Says Liberal

The B.C. government should not mollycoddle an infant steel industry through long-term subsidies, P. A. Gibbs, Oak Bay Liberal MLA, said in the legislature Monday.

The member, however, did not oppose short term subsidies which the government will pay the first company to set up a basic iron and steel industry using B.C. ore.

It had been stated earlier, he said, that a smelter in B.C. would use up to about 100,000 tons of ore a year. He questioned whether B.C. could produce that much iron and steel at a price which would compete with eastern mills.

"I would like to ask why B.C. ore is not purchased by eastern mills," Mr. Gibbs said. "Is it due to the high cost of the B.C. product, or have freight rates something to do with it?"

Can B.C. Make Steel Profitably?

The Liberal member said eastern Canadian manufacturers used about 5,000,000 tons of ore a year, of which 4,000,000 tons were imported.

"I would like to know whether or not quality steel can be produced profitably from B.C. ore without importation of foreign ore," he said.

Mr. Gibbs had given only part of his speech when the House adjourned Monday evening. At the outset he asked for an adjournment so that he could open Tuesday, but Premier Bennett said, as the government was anxious to avoid night sittings, he would prefer the member to speak until 6 p.m.

UBCM Action Asked On Trading Stamps

Esquimalt Decides Controversial Issue Beyond Jurisdiction of Municipalities

Trading stamp curbs are beyond municipal authority, Esquimalt council decided Monday.

Acting on the advice of solicitors McIlree and McIntyre, council will ask the Union of B.C. Municipalities to put the matter before the "appropriate authorities."

Victoria and Saanich councils have passed resolutions ordering licence inspectors to refuse licences to businesses planning to deal in trading stamps.

Oak Bay council has condemned trading stamps in principle but will seek legal advice on the issue.

UNWISE

Although the stamps are illegal under the Criminal Code, a resolution against them would be "impractical and unwise," Esquimalt solicitors said.

Power contained in the Criminal Code can be exercised only after a conviction and there is no record of prosecutions since sections in the code governing trading stamps were passed in 1905.

Since municipalities are not empowered to pass criminal legislation, a stand against trading stamps would be "illegal and meaningless," W. R. Mc-

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp rise in immigration in 1956 helped boost Canada's population at Jan. 1 to an estimated 16,344,000.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Monday that the population figure for the first of the year represents a gain of 526,000 over the corresponding date in 1956.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

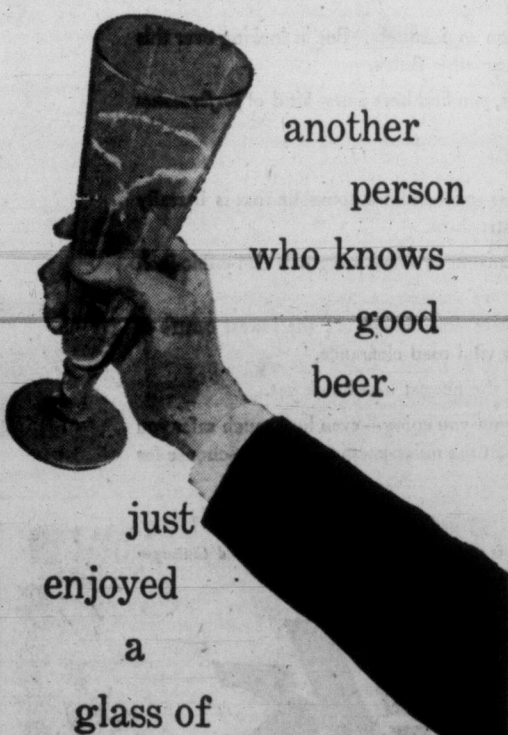

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

O'Neill Resigns Saanich Council

Second Saanich council resignation within a month came Monday when first-term councillor T. J. O'Neill, 46, quit for health reasons.

Last month Coun. J. Ronald Grant, also with 11 months to serve of his first term, tendered his resignation because of a business move to Vancouver.

Acceptance of Coun. O'Neill's resignation by council Monday means two vacancies to be filled at a by-election March 9, date set by council for voting on School District 61's revised $4,470,000 building by-law.

"He made a farewell plea for amalgamation."

BETTER FOR ALL

"I am more convinced, and in complete agreement with the reeve, that the sooner we consider the matter of amalgamation with Victoria, the better off our ratepayers will be," said the councillor.

"Amalgamation . . . will result in more efficient services to the public in general."

"The matter of a joint municipal hall, if an agreement is reached, could be the beginning of a united Greater Victoria, and

I sincerely hope that this will materialize."

For about two months last fall Coun. O'Neill was absent from the municipal scene because of illness.

MONTE ROBERTS

On Sunday I encountered a bicycle with a built-in radio. This may not come as news to you, but it did to me. Encountering a bicycle with a built-in radio is a brand-new experience, as far as I am concerned, and it left me in a state of considerable shock. In the days when I propelled a bicycle from point "A" to point "B" (usually via points "C," "D," "E," and "Q.") I considered it a scientific triumph when the carbide headlight was replaced with a gadget which generated its own power by revolving against the rim of the wheel (if you pedalled actively enough). But here I was, on Sunday, standing face to face with a bicycle producing lively music. The owner of the bicycle, a bright-eyed, pleasant young man of about 13, name of Ken O'Cooley, was glad to demonstrate its talents. "You turn the key here, you see," he explained, "and that turns the power on. The radio is built in underneath the drop bar; the battery is on the carrier over the rear wheel. "You can see where the tuning dial and the power dial are," Ken added, pointing to the side of the drop bar. "It's nothing but wonderful," I admired. "Christmas present, no doubt?" "Oh, no, I earned it," said young Ken. "Won a carrier boys' contest." "The Times, I trust?" I asked. "Yes, it was," he said. "Why?" "No reason," I lied, and watched, wistfully, as he peddled away in rhythm to the music.

As you might guess, I was not content to leave the matter there, so I had a chat with Roy Comrie, circulation officer manager of The Times, on Monday. Yes, indeed, said Roy Comrie, Ken O'Cooley was awarded the bike for being top carrier-salesman in a recent contest. "He earned it, he's a good boy," said Roy. "I hope he likes it. But as for me," went on Roy, "I'm not so sure about radio-equipped bikes. "We were taking it around to the various sub-stations," he explained, "showing it to the boys before the contest opened. "And at the very first sub-station, I made my pitch, saying what a fine bike it was, and how any boy would love to own it. "So right at the climax of my little talk, I turned on the key to start the radio, and switched on full power, and an announcement blasted out like this: "For the best in this, that, the other and everything, subscribe right now to the V-ne-v-r P-r-v-ince." I hope Ken O'Cooley is very, very happy with his radio bike. I doubt Roy Comrie will ever offer another one.

Pleading guilty to making false statements to obtain unemployment insurance benefits, Jack Fong, Royal Olympic Hotel, was fined $25 and costs in city police court today. Maximum fine is $500. A. D. King, counsel for the National Employment Service, said Fong worked for three weeks and during that period drew insurance benefits. Counsel did not press for a heavy fine. men looking over his own car, and later West's car shortly before 9 a.m. One he could identify, he said. West said his car may have run out of gas as the robbers made their getaway. He said the tank was nearly empty Saturday and he delayed buying gas until Monday after work because he thought there would be just enough to get him to work and to a service station. Detectives went over the car for fingerprints Monday afternoon. Nineteen-year-old Margetts told police the man jumped behind his wicket and said: "This is a hold-up. No one move." Watching the bank staff and two customers, he grabbed the loose cash, spilling it over the counter and floor as he jumped back over the counter, first warning manager J. H. McDermott, 543 St. Patrick. "Be quiet there, buddy." The manager had moved toward a pistol in his desk drawer at the sound of the scuffle and seeing the robber on top of the counter. The teller stood with his hands raised. Customers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight, 1021 Pendergast, also stood quietly. "I was pretty frightened," said Mr. Knight. "If I see this man again I won't have any trouble identifying him," Mr. McDermott said. "I had a good look and I wouldn't miss him in a lineup."

ANYONE SEEN THIS MAN?

Police seek a dark-complexioned man about 24 or 25 years old, slight build, weighing 140-150 pounds, with facial blemishes like pimple scars, in the Monday afternoon robbery of the James Bay branch, Bank of Commerce. He would be about five feet, 11 inches in height. The man wore a charcoal grey suit and hat, the suit looking like it had been slept in. His shoes, also black, were described as cheap-looking. He wore dark-rimmed eyeglasses.

Greater Victoria Water District today cleared final technicalities which had blocked the transfer of city lands at Goldstream Park to the provincial government. Pt. Alberni Man's Body Found Near Wreckage

RCMP have launched an investigation into the death of Elmer W. Milan, about 30, whose body was found today near his wrecked car below the Nanaimo highway about three miles from Port Alberni.

Search for a suspected female companion revealed nothing. It appeared Milan had been driving away from Port Alberni and failed to round a curve. He had skidded, hit a guard rail, then traveled 36 feet on top of the guard rail before plunging down a 75-foot bank. Other highways department employees on patrol earlier in the morning said they had seen the car at 6:30 a.m. with a man and woman in it. It was parked beside the road with its engine running, and moved off when the truck light flashed on it, they said.

Water Board Refuses Lower Stumpage Rate

Greater Victoria Water Board today refused a request from Manning Timber Company to ease a contract agreement for logging on the Goldstream watershed.

Charles Ruttan, appearing for the company, asked an average stumpage fee of $32.65 per 1,000 board feet be reduced by $10. He said due to declining log prices since the contract to cut approximately 1,350,000 board feet was signed last April, his firm stands to lose heavily. He said sales of timber at present are fetching his firm about $12 a thousand under the cost of logging.

$7,500 LOSS

The contract runs for another five months and if completed could cost the firm $7,500. If it withdraws from the water board contract it loses $5,200 deposit plus about $15,000 in logging subcontracts.

Members of the board expressed sympathy but pointed out two other logging firms, Moore-Whittington and Oak Bay Lumber have similar logging contracts. Any concessions, if they could be made under statutes governing the water district, would be a precedent which would likely have to be repeated.

Value of the timber contract based on the 1,350,000 board feet estimate was $50,000. But the logging firm has already logged 1,642,000 and some 750,000 board feet remains to be cut in the specified area. The water district has received $25,000 stumpage to date and stands to collect another $30,000 if the contract is completed.

$20 in Fines In Test Case On TV Aerials

Edward Drew TV Ltd., 745 View, which lost a test case last week against a city by-law passed 19 years ago, was fined in city police court today a total of $20 on two counts of erecting antennae without building permits. The firm was convicted by Magistrate H. C. Hall on one charge last Friday. It pleaded guilty to another today, and was fined $10 on each count.

In its defence, the firm argued there was nothing specific in the by-law to cover TV antennae. It claimed the by-law only applied to radio masts and antennae.

Woodhouse, second vice-president, and George I. Warren, treasurer. ASK The TIMES

Q. What besides income tax does the federal government take from the public of British Columbia?—W.E.S.

A. Under the current tax rental agreement, the province has assigned its personal and corporation income tax and succession duty levies to Canada in return for an annual payment which is adjusted for growth in provincial population and the gross national product. In summary, therefore, only Canada is levying income and succession duty taxes in B.C. today.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. Questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

'ELECTION' HIGHWAY CHEAP ROAD?

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan charged in the legislature Monday the reconstructed Trans-Canada Highway south of Duncan is a "cheap road." "It looks and acts like a cheaply built road," he said. Mr. Strachan noted that the hard-surfacing of the highway within his riding of Cowichan-Newcastle was completed just two days before the election last September. "I wish they had spent more time on construction," he said.

More Roads Under Slow-Down Order

Load and speed restrictions for all vehicles except passenger cars were imposed today by the Provincial Highways Department on Vancouver Island roads. The restrictions are enforced to protect main highways and side roads from frost damage. A department of highways official said they will be in effect for the next two to six weeks. There is no indication that frost damage to roads will be heavier than usual this spring.

Mr. Monteith said today he could "readily recall" the private bill referred to by Mr. Bonner and the name of his client, the petitioner. "The ethics of my profession prohibit my revealing either," he said.

Mr. Monteith said that since he was appointed clerk in 1949 he had always made a point of informing the chairman of the Private Bills Committee of any bill in which he had been retained by the proponent or his solicitor.

Mr. Bonner had been chairman of the committee during at least one session, Mr. Monteith said. "The situation disclosed by the attorney-general must obviously have been known to him for years yet he conveniently 'discovers' it at this late date and announces it after scrupulously avoiding any chance of having it debated in the House."

NO NAME USED

Mr. Bonner told the legislature, "It is felt that this House is entitled to disinterested service from its officers and action to this end has been taken."

Mr. Monteith's name was not used in Mr. Bonner's statement. Reference was made only to the office he held.

Liberal George Gregory asked if the officer in question had been given an opportunity to give an explanation before he was dismissed. Mr. Bonner, after conferring briefly with Premier Bennett, replied: "I am not able to answer that question precisely but the evidence itself is fair enough."

CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan then raised a question concerning the dismissal of former sergeant-at-arms Edgar A. Jamieson.

"In all fairness I suggest the attorney-general should also give a reason for his dismissal," Mr. Strachan said. Premier Bennett rose to answer Mr. Strachan.

Pineapples---And Pearl Harbor

(Sixth in a series) There are two tours in Honolulu which no visitor should miss—the Dole pineapple works and Pearl Harbor. The man to look up at Dole is David Eyre, a former Time Magazine correspondent, one of the best newspapermen in the Pacific Northwest, and now director of public relations for the pineapple company. He'll give you an ice-cold cup of pineapple juice in the attractive waiting-room, put you in charge of a pretty and intelligent guide named Norma, and send you merrily on your way.

The Dole plant is something of a landmark in Honolulu, having a water tower in the shape of a pineapple which holds 100,000 gallons of water and—so they say—not a single drop of pineapple juice. The company turns out 720 million cans of pineapple products annually—40 per cent of Hawaii's output. Some 7,500 employees process the fruit of 50,000 nearby acres in an immaculate plant without ever touching it with the human hand.

Most impressive machine is the "Ginaca," named after the Dole engineer who invented it.

In one minute it can peel, core and trim 105 "pines," shooting them along to an assembly line where Japanese-Hawaiian women tend to the slicing and grading.

En route, your guide will stop to offer you a couple of rings of the "fancy" grade. And on the way out, they'll give you a booklet called "How You Can Give Hawaiian parties," full of recipes, table decorations and entertainment stunts, guaranteed to please the lady of the house.

There are two tours of Pearl Harbor—one commercial, which makes a small charge, and one by the U.S. Navy. The navy one is generally conceded to be the best, not only because a "Journalist, Third Class," gives a sprightly running commentary but because it gets closer to things.

"Anybody from Los Angeles on board?" the sailor inquires. A few trusting souls raise their hands. "Ah, there," says the sailor, smiling innocently. "Now all together—take a nice, deep breath of that sweet, clean air."

By STUART KEATE

Cameras are permitted, but you may take pictures only in two places—the Arizona, where over 1,000 U.S. navy men were killed (and lay buried) on Dec. 7, 1941; and at the Utah.

Along the way, the navy tells a fascinating story of the "Day of Infamy," so that the tourists have the feeling of eye-witnessing a dark chapter in modern history. Dollar value of the present installation: $1½ billions, and it's a pretty safe bet that Pearl won't be surprised next time.

The "Journalist, Third Class" (and what other navy could produce a rate like that?) also points out a couple of destroyers at a jetty, to underline the democratization of the fleet. One is named the Silverstein; the other, the McGinty.

Captain of the McGinty is an officer named Goodman. And the captain of the Silverstein is officer O'Reilly!

By PENNY SAVER

Everything, but everything has a cover of some sort. I came to this great conclusion after wandering around town in search of bargains for you readers. I found covers for chairs, covers for sports equipment, covers for hats, covers for food ... shall I go on, or have you the picture? First I saw golf club covers. They come in set of three for $2.99, a special price for you lucky golfers. They're of natural leather, well-made and designed to last. It might be a good idea to tuck a set or two away for HIS birthday, or, turning the tables for the occasion, present a set to him on St. Valentine's Day.

More "undercover" stuff—here are plastic sofa covers to protect the upholstery, or to keep dust off while you're off on a trip. These are $2.89 each. Next on the list is a contour mattress cover. It fits snugly, and, of course, does a wonderful job of keeping your mattresses like new. The price—$1.98. There are regular mattress covers with zippers, at $3.69.

Now the mattress is neatly covered, you can start on that comfy comforter that you just hate to part with. The fact that the cover is getting a bit faded or worn doesn't mean you have to throw or give it away. Buy a new cover for it. They come in soft, printed lawn with inset bands and binding of satin in the print's predominant color. Gold, green, pink, maroon and blue are available. These comforter covers are really attractive, and cost $3.49 each.

Last, but not least, are covers for ... you! Yep, I've found, on sale at a wonderfully low price, down-filled sleeping bags. For summertime camping trip, these nylon encased sleeping bags are cosy and warm. You'll save a few dollars by buying now, and when the warm weather rolls around, you'll be glad you looked ahead.

A St. Valentine's Day hint for you men: "To My Valentine" chocolates, in a gay, red embossed heart-shaped box, all be-ribboned and pretty. The boxes come in many sizes, from $1.35 through $2.50, $3.50, $5 and $10.

Call me at 2.3131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned here in the column today or during past weeks.

A delicious dessert idea plays a double role, for these cupid's tarts are decorative, too.

A Valentine's Day Treat Are Fancy Cupid's Tarts

These cupid's tarts are high-fashion, fancy, flavorful desserts. Your table will sparkle with sentiment when you serve them on a large platter surrounding a jumbo red heart-shaped candle.

Make the pastry by lining either the inside or outside of a heart-shaped gelatin mold. Bake them as you do regular pastry and cool before adding the rich, creamy and tangy lemon mixture.

You can melt the hardest heart when you serve hot tea and cupid's tarts.

CUPID'S TARTS

1½ cups sugar, 5 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups milk, 2 egg yolks, ½ cup fresh lemon juice, grated peel of 1 lemon, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and milk in saucepan; cook over medium heat until smooth and translucent or about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in slightly beaten egg yolks and return to stove. Cook at low heat, stirring constantly, for another 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon juice, grated peel, and butter. Allow to cool. Pour into baked heart-shaped pastry shells or individual tart shells. Top with meringue.

Meringue: Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice to 2 egg whites. Beat until frothy, gradually add four tablespoons granulated sugar, and continue beating until whites are stiff.

Berkeley-Hemsworth Wedding in Courtenay

St. George's United Church, Courtenay, was scene recently of a lovely double-ring ceremony in which June Beverley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hemsworth, Sandwick, B.C., and Robert Drew, only son of Mrs. R. Rae, Sr., Ladysmith, and the late Mr. W. D. Berkeley, were wed. Rev. Frank Johnson officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of white lace and net posed over satin. A lace jacket featured lily point sleeves and a sequin embroidered Peter Pan collar. Sparkling sequins outlined the pointed lace bodice insets which extended into the full skirt. Her chapel length veil of illusion net edged with lace misted softly from a pearl encrusted tiara. She carried a cascade bridal bouquet of red and white roses.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. George Bergsma, who wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow net over satin topped with a matching lace bolero. She carried a bouquet of blue and yellow flowers and wore a bandeau of yellow blossoms in her hair. Miss Marjorie Creaser was bridesmaid, in a blue net over satin multi-tiered ballerina-length dress. She carried a blue and yellow bouquet and wore a bandeau of blue flowers in her hair. Sheila Watkins, niece of the groom, was tiny flower girl, in a full-length frock of pink embossed nylon over pink taffeta. Her hair bandeau was of pink flowers and her bouquet of mixed flowers.

The groom had Melvin Strand as best man, and ushers were George Bergsma and Dwight Clayton.

During the signing of the register, Les Ross sang "O Perfect Love." Accompanist was D. Arnot, organist.

A reception was held at the Flamingo Room, where guests were received by the newlyweds and their families. Mrs. Hemsworth wore a navy lace dress with navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Rae chose a brown suit with beige accessories and a pink carnation corsage. A miniature bride and groom in a lace, heart topped the ornately-decorated three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table. Roy Clayton was master of ceremonies, and Sam Beck proposed the toast to the bride.

Serving guests were Misses Naida Johnson, Gerry Ellison, Mrs. J. Gollick, Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. M. Strand, Mrs. B. Ralston, Mrs. B. Watkins, Mrs. J. Pritchard and Mrs. D. Clayton.

Britain Backs
U.S. on Mid-East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Britain today threw its support behind the new United States compromise plan to settle the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock.

The endorsement came from a British spokesman as U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., conferred with Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, Canada's external affairs minister L. B. Pearson, and others active in behind-the-scenes negotiations. Lodge previously had talked with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi about the plan which State Secretary Dulles presented Monday to the Israeli ambassador.

Under the plan, the United States agreed to give public support to the principle of free shipping in the Gulf of Aquaba and to use its influence to get UN forces into the Gaza Strip. It was hoped these commitments would give Israel the assurances it wanted before agreeing to withdraw Israeli forces back across the 1949 armistice lines.

$1 BILLION PROJECT
PLANNED FOR NORTHRuss Urge 'Hands Off'
In Mid-EastArms Ban Key
To 6-Point Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov announced today that Russia has proposed to the Western Big Three a mutual hands-off program in the Middle East.

Shepilov told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, that the Russian government had transmitted a six-point proposal in notes to the ambassadors of Britain, the United States and France.

Shepilov said in effect the Soviet is ready to stop sending arms to the Middle East if the Western powers will do likewise and will abandon their military bases there.

The six points were:
"1. The maintenance of peace in the Near and Middle East through settling disputed questions exclusively by peaceful means by negotiations.
"2. Non-interference in the internal affairs of the Near and Middle East; respect of the sovereignty and independence of these countries.
"3. Renounce any attempts to include these countries in military blocs with the participation of the great powers (a direct slap at the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact but not at the Arab League alliance which Egypt has been promoting).
"4. The liquidation of foreign bases and the withdrawal of foreign troops from the territory."

DUNCAN TRIAL

Accused Said
'I Killed Him'
Police Claim

(Special to the Times)

NANAIMO — Arrest of Thomas Sidney Symes on a charge of murdering Paul Richard Powling in Duncan New Year's Day was described today for RCMP Sgt. W. J. Currie.

Symes pleaded not guilty when the trial opened Monday before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson. The shooting took place in the room of Symes' estranged wife in a Duncan boarding house.

Sgt. Currie submitted the following written statement, which he said had been made by Symes after all due warnings had been given, and which had been signed by Symes:

"I shot Paul. I killed him. There is no question about that. He was at one time my best friend. He beat me out of my family."

Accused made no protest when he was arrested at 1 p.m. New Year's Day, Sgt. Currie said.

"I put my hand on his shoulder," Sgt. Currie said. "The accused said, 'I will come. I have killed a man, but you are not dealing with a mad dog.'"

SIGNED STATEMENT
After Symes had been given the usual warning, he dictated and signed the statement, Sgt. Currie said.

Cpl. Eugene D. Westhaver, RCMP firearms expert, said the bullet that had killed Powling had been fired from a gun borrowed from Symes' nephew before the shooting.

Swedish Financier
Involved

A Vancouver report said today a vast industrial project involving close to $1,000,000,000 for northern British Columbia is being planned by the Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren.

The report said an agreement has been reached by the Provincial government and Wenner-Gren to develop the Rocky Mountain Trench area north of Prince George.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston refused this afternoon either to deny or confirm the report but said "you will probably be hearing something about it soon."

The project will include development of timber, mineral and hydro-electric resources in the area which stretches 500 miles to the northern B.C. boundary, it was said.

MONORAIL NORTHWARD

A monorail railway, running north from Fort McLeod in the centre of the Trench, is included in the plan. It would connect with the northern extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway at Fort McLeod.

The junction is 65 miles north of Prince George and about 500 miles north of Vancouver.

NEW COMMUNITIES

The plan, reportedly, calls for creation of a string of new communities in the Rocky Mountain Trench, which is the valley of the Finlay and Parsnip Rivers. Prince George will be the gateway to the huge project.

It is believed that the Wenner-Gren organization will receive a forest management licence in the arrangement reached with the government. Mineral rights and rights to develop hydro-electric power would be included.

The entire development will follow the pattern of the Kitimat development of the Aluminum Co. of Canada, it was said.

REWARD FOR WILSON ARREST
UNDER STUDY

An investigation is under way by the Canadian Bankers' Association to determine whether a reward will be paid to TCA traffic agent J. Reid Hannan for his part in helping to apprehend bank robber Leonard Wilson.

Wilson got five years in the penitentiary for a hold-up at the Douglas Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Jan. 7, and theft of $1,320.

He was apprehended in Seattle because Mr. Hannan had noticed his unusual behavior at Patricia Bay Airport.

North Park, opposite the spot where West's car was parked, said Monday was the first day "in years" he missed West putting his lunch bucket in the car. He said he noticed two young

'WE MUST ALL TAKE SOME BLAME FOR INFLATION'

Social Credit Playing Politics
Over Tight Money, Says Strachan

CCF Leader Robert Strachan Monday accused the Social Credit government of trying to make "political capital" by attacking the federal government's tight money policies.

Mr. Strachan, opening the Opposition attack in the legislature Throne Speech debate, said the federal government is not solely responsible for present inflationary trends.

"We all have some responsibility," he said, "therefore we must all take some of the blame, and belaboring the federal government or Bank of Canada or the chartered banks or the industrial enterprises or labor will not solve the problem."

"Something more is required to exchanges between provincial cabinet ministers and federal government officials over the best methods to run the economy as "slapstick vaudeville."

"But nowhere have I heard Social Credit say what they would do—they just condemn others," Mr. Strachan said.

Unless inflation is curbed, the life savings of many people will be wiped out, he said.

The CCF leader suggested that Premier Bennett called the election last fall with "break-neck speed" because of a fear of depression and unemployment was ahead.

But during the campaign the premier "stumped the length and

Pickwickian Air Permeates House — For the Moment

There is a Pickwickian air as yet about the present session of British Columbia's legislature. No angry words, no bitter retorts, but rather the kind of cheery badinage you might expect to be tossed back and forth by the members of Charles Dickens' illustrious Pickwick Club seated around their merry festive board.

The fireworks no doubt will come later.

Meanwhile, Mr. Pickwick himself almost materialized in the House Monday in the good-natured personage of P. Archie Gibbs, Liberal member for Oak Bay, as he gently chided former members of the older parties for swelling the Social Credit ranks to 39 out of 52 seats.

"Look at them!" said Mr. Gibbs, but without a hint of malice in his voice, "16 ex-Tories, nine renegade CCFers, seven renegade Liberals—and only seven genuine Social Crediters."

Mr. "Pickwick" Gibbs then reminded the laughing House that he and his Liberal colleague, George Gregory, had their backs to the wall (in the second row of the opposition). And, proceeding to the tune of The Charge of the Light Brigade, he talked of cannons to the right of them, cannons to the left of them and, of course, cannons to the front of them (meaning the government).

Asselstine Promised 'Something'

He understood the honorable member for Atlin (ex-Liberal cabinet minister W. J. Asselstine) had been promised "something" in the Social Credit cabinet. (Cries of "no, no.")

Did the honorable member deny this? The honorable member did. He rose on a point of order to say he had never been promised anything.

Mr. Gibbs was gratified to hear the honorable member's honorable denial. But he would not be put down. He did not think Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition would be much concerned about defeating the government. That would come from without. The House knew what had happened to a former Coalition government. And what was this but a coalition of renegades from other parties?

Even the fiery CCF Opposition seemed infected with this Pickwick mood as they rose, one after another, to chide the government for not promising increased aid to the University of British Columbia in the Throne speech.

Looking rather like Micawber, loquacious bald-pated Leo Nimsick from Cranbrook said he hoped something would "turn up" in the budget. He declared the university was now so crowded there were seven students per wash basin.

"How many girls per

phone?" interrupted Premier Bennett, who was also in Pickwickian mood.

After the style of Scrooge's good-natured nephew, Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) appealed to the government not to be "stingy" in providing for poor students.

CCF leader Robert Strachan talked of slapstick comedy between Victoria and Ottawa and said each was metaphorically "sticking its tongue out" at the other through the press.

He asked for a complete financial statement on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, and this produced a light-hearted reproof from Archie Gibbs.

"I always consider it my special privilege to call for returns on the PGE," Mr. Gibbs said. "The honorable leader of the Opposition has encroached on my preserves."

In the midst of all this good humor, it was surprising not to hear from the Sam Weller of the legislature—the elfin, 82-year-old Tom Uphill from Fernie.

Mr. Uphill bounced around in his chair on the Opposition side of the House, scowled at formidable-looking documents on his desk and exchanged furtive whispers with his neighbor, Leo Nimsick.

This is ominous, Mr. Uphill has been in the House for 37 consecutive years. He must be saving up for something.

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters) — Two mass-circulation newspapers today condemn in outspoken editorials the official handling of U.S. press reports alleging a rift between the queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The tabloid Daily Mirror accuses the cabinet, the Queen's advisers and Buckingham Palace officials of having "botched" the affair by not issuing a firm denial.

The newspaper repeats its call to the duke to "kill the rumors stone dead" by flying home immediately from Gibraltar, where he is scheduled to remain this week before joining the Queen for a state visit to Portugal.

The Daily Herald, official Labor party organ, asserts that "scandalous injustice has been done to the Queen, the Duke, and to this country by the ineptitude with which this matter has been handled."

Peterborough, columnist in the right-wing Daily Telegraph, says this is not the first time American newspapers have commented on the private lives of the Royal Family. "Their conjectures have lacked both truth and taste," he adds.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, in an interview with Mrs. Joan Graham, London correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, who filed the first "rift" report, quotes the 38-year-old Mrs. Graham as saying: "I personally didn't think it would have such a snowball effect, but I do not apologize for reporting rumors."

"If you are a foreign correspondent it is your duty to report rumors."

The Daily Mirror says of "people upstairs" . . . "They finished their tea and assigned a minor Buckingham Palace official to issue a curt denial. . . . Not to the British press or to the Commonwealth press, but to the Americans."

breadth of the province predicting unending prosperity if only the people would re-elect his Social Credit government."

INEFFECTIVE

Mr. Strachan said continuation of present controls by the government and the Bank of Canada will be ineffective.

The heavy rate of investment expenditures cannot be appreciably slowed down through regulation of bank credit, he said.

Higher interest rates are not a deterrent to corporate borrowings because higher borrowing costs are more than offset by the high level of corporate profits.

Also corporations deduct interest payments for income tax purposes so that higher borrowing costs are largely written off.

It is municipalities which find it much more difficult to borrow as a result of the tighter money policy, Mr. Strachan said.

The CCF leader said corporation profits must be reduced and depreciation allowances altered if we are to meet the danger of inflation.

Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States must also be corrected if this country is to avoid being vulnerable to any shift in United States policy or conditions.

The provincial government should take a more active role in controlling the economy by entering the insurance and housing fields.

Government capital for these purposes could be handled through treasury branches, which Mr. Strachan earlier recommended be created to assist farmers with long-term, low-interest loans.

An important announcement from the Kellogg Company

By George M. Johnston
President, Kellogg Company
of Canada

BEFORE our founder, W. K. Kellogg, died in 1951, he had a great concept about a new cereal. He believed that valuable properties of other foods could be combined with those of the grains in such a way as to produce a high-quality protein food in a delicious new cereal form.

For over 4 years, we at Kellogg's worked hand in hand with leading nutritionists on this project.

Out of it has come an achievement that is perhaps the greatest in our history. Special K.

This new cereal food is an unusual combination of nourishing grains and other natural foods including milk and yeast.

It's a ready-to-eat cereal containing 20% protein

You can start babies on it, feed it to "growing ups" and benefit from it yourself. It is ideal for older people because of its unique, easy-eating qualities, its high-quality protein content. And because Special K contains only 4/10 of 1% fat, it is highly recommended for use in slimming diets.

It has a combination of vitamins specified for us by the nutritionists who worked with us as being most needed by most people.

Yet, the surprising thing is that with all its nutritional properties—this is probably as enjoyable a cereal as anyone has ever put into his mouth. It's not quite a puff, not quite a flake, but I can assure you, it's unusually tempting to eat.

You may be interested in knowing what happened when this new high-protein cereal was sent out in a plain package to several thousand people whose opinions are rather important to us—people just like you.

To begin with, 4 out of 5 started off by saying how much they like its taste:

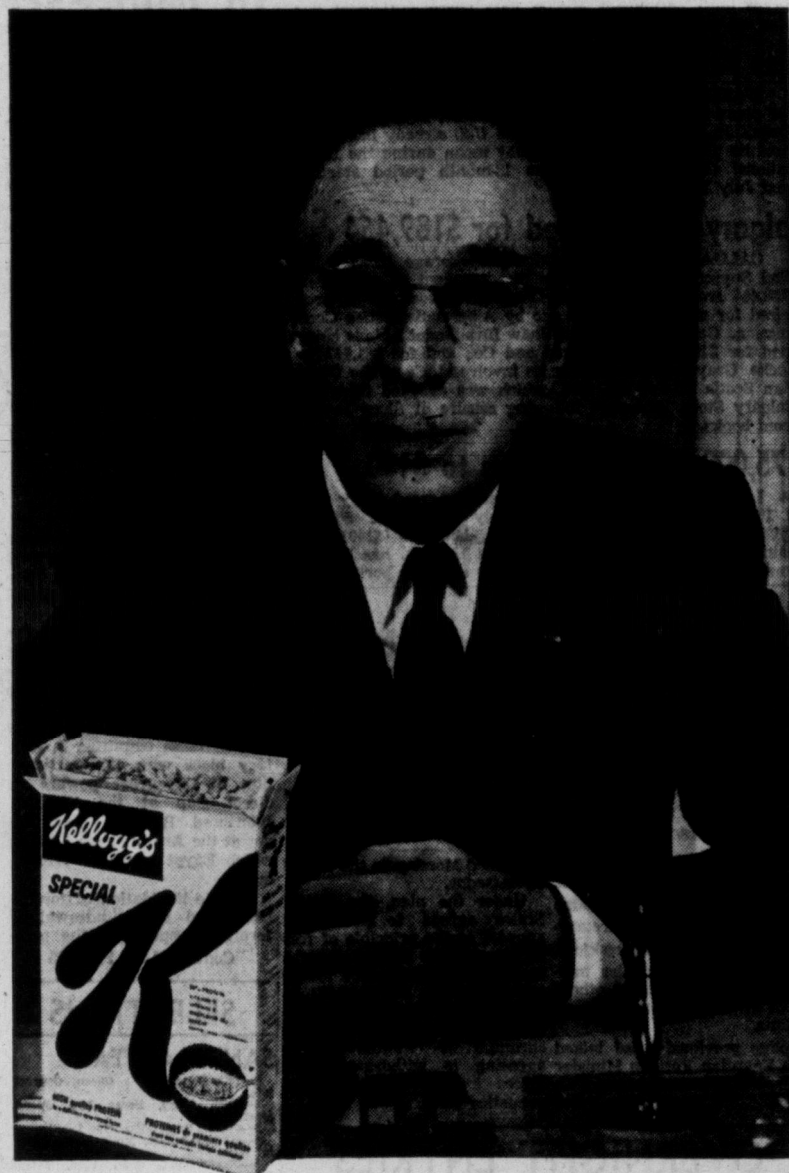

A dietician said: "This cereal is the answer to my plea for more protein in the diet of my patients. And—they like it very much."

A food editor stated: "It's amazing that a cereal with so much solid nourishment could be so light and tasty."

We're calling this new cereal our "Special K" because we feel the big red "K" in our trade mark is more or less our coat of arms.

Special K is on hand now at most grocers'. We want you to try it for its unusual flavor and excellent nutritional benefits. We particularly address this invitation to people who haven't been eating cereals too frequently.

We feel sure you'll enjoy Special K, for breakfast and any time of day you want something wholesome and delicious.

Here's the Nutrition Story of Special K

WHERE BANDIT GOT $3,000

Out-of-the-way Canadian Bank of Commerce branch 100 feet from the southwest corner of Menzies on Superior, behind the Legislative Buildings, is where robbers got about $3,000 in armed hold-up Monday. Two men did the job, using a stolen car to make an escape. The bank, adjacent to provincial government buildings, would have had much more cash on hand nearer the end of the month when civil servants get their cheques. (Times Photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

On Sunday I encountered a bicycle with a built-in radio. This may not come as news to you, but it did to me. Encountering a bicycle with a built-in radio is a brand-new experience, as far as I am concerned, and it left me in a state of considerable shock.

In the days when I propelled a bicycle from point "A" to point "B" (usually via points "C," "D," "E," and "Q.") I considered it a scientific triumph when the carbide headlight was replaced with a gadget which generated its own power by revolving against the rim of the wheel (if you pedaled actively enough).

But here I was, on Sunday, standing face to face with a bicycle producing lively music.

The owner of the bicycle, a bright-eyed, pleasant young man of about 13, name of Ken O'Conroy, was glad to demonstrate its talents.

"You turn the key here, you see," he explained, "and that turns the power on. The radio is built in underneath the drop bar; the battery is on the carrier over the rear wheel."

"You can see where the tuning dial and the power dial are," Ken added, pointing to the side of the drop bar. "It's nothing but wonderful," I admired. "Christmas present, no doubt?"

"Oh, no, I earned it," said young Ken. "Won a carrier boys' contest."

"The Times, I trust?" I asked.

"Yes, it was," he said. "Why?"

"No reason," I lied, and watched, wistfully, as he peddled away in rhythm to the music.

As you might guess, I was not content to leave the matter there, so I had a chat with Roy Comrie, circulation officer manager of The Times, on Monday.

Yes, indeed, said Roy Comrie, Ken O'Conroy was awarded the bike for being top carrier-salesman in a recent contest. "He earned it, he's a good boy," said Roy. "I hope he likes it. But as for me, I'm not so sure about radio-equipped bikes."

"We were taking it around to the various sub-stations," he explained, "showing it to the boys before the contest opened."

"And at the very first sub-station, I made my pitch, saying what a fine bike it was, and how any boy would love to own it."

"So right at the climax of my little talk, I turned on the key to start the radio, and switched on full power, and an announcement blasted out like this:

"For the best in this, that, the other and everything, subscribe right now to the V-ne-v-r Prv-ince."

I hope Ken O'Conroy is very, very happy with his radio bike.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Pleading guilty to making false statements to obtain unemployment insurance benefits, Jack Fong, Royal Olympic Hotel, was fined $25 and costs in city police court today. Maximum fine is $500.

A. D. King, counsel for the National Employment Service, said Fong worked for three weeks and during that period drew insurance benefits. Counsel did not press for a heavy fine.

Stuart Keate, publisher of The Victoria Daily Times, will speak on Victoria's tourist industry at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group at the Dominion Hotel Friday.

Pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving, Ronald Melvin Boorman was fined $250 in city police court today. His driver's licence was also suspended.

"Why Our Schools Are Cheaper Today" will be subject of a panel discussion at Central Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Victoria Ald. Hugh Ramsay is moderator. The panel includes Ronald Jeune, optometrist; Newton Smith, personnel director; John Wade, architect, and School Trustee Richard Reeve.

An Esquimalt representative on the Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board, Reeve A. C. Wurtele will attend a civil defence course at Arnprior, Ont., March 4 to 8.

Theft of two .177 calibre target-type air pistols from Victoria Sporting Goods, 1410 Douglas, was reported to city police at 1:50 p.m. Monday.

C. V. McConnell, proprietor, said the theft occurred Saturday.

Guns were described as black, bearing the trade name "marksmen" and were each valued at $7.95.

CITY POLICE Constable George Buckle takes a description of the gun-wielding robber from bank teller Peter Margetts, 19, a few minutes after the hold-up. Margetts had the pistol thrust in his stomach and was warned to keep still.

men looking over his own car, and later West's car shortly before 9 a.m. One he could identify, he said.

West said his car may have run out of gas as the robbers made their getaway. He said the tank was nearly empty Saturday and he delayed buying gas until Monday after work because he thought there would be just enough to get him to work and to a service station.

Detectives went over the car for fingerprints Monday afternoon.

Nineteen-year-old Margetts told police the man jumped behind his wicket and said:

"This is a hold-up. No one move."

Watching the bank staff and two customers, he grabbed the loose cash, spilling it over the counter and floor as he jumped back over the counter, first warning manager J. H. McDermott, 543 St. Patrick. "Be quiet there, buddy."

The manager had moved toward a pistol in his desk drawer at the sound of the scuffle and seeing the robber on top of the counter.

The teller stood with his hands raised. Customers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight, 1021 Pendergast, also stood quietly.

"I was pretty frightened," said Mr. Knight.

"If I see this man again I won't have any trouble identifying him," Mr. McDermott said. "I had a good look and I wouldn't miss him in a lineup."

According to two local optometrists, the past few years of television viewing here have not resulted in the defective vision or widespread headaches noted by British school doctors and specialists.

A recently-published government report compiled in London states that eye doctors are "concerned by the effect of bad television habits on the eyes of youngsters."

The report covering 1954 and 1955 shows that 3 per cent of five-year-old children needed spectacles, and many other children with normal vision complained of headaches.

WAY CLEARED FOR GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER GOLDSTREAM PARK

Greater Victoria Water District today cleared final technicalities which had blocked the transfer of city lands at Goldstream Park to the provincial government. The transfer was held up by water rights involvements. The way is now clear for transfer on the agreement the land, about 700 acres, is to be developed by the province as a park and camping area.

Pt. Alberni Man's Body Found Near Wreckage

RCMP have launched an investigation into the death of Elmer W. Milan, about 30, whose body was found today near his wrecked car below the Nanaimo highway about three miles from Port Alberni.

Search for a suspected female companion revealed nothing.

It appeared Milan had been driving away from Port Alberni and failed to round a curve. He had skidded, hit a guard rail, then traveled 36 feet on top of the guard rail before plunging down a 75-foot bank.

Other highways department employees on patrol earlier in the morning said they had seen the car at 6:30 a.m. with a man and woman in it. It was parked beside the road with its engine running, and moved off when the truck light flashed on it, they said.

Search at the scene of the accident revealed a lady's glove near the car, and Rogers Creek was searched down as far as a natural obstruction, with no sign of any person.

Milan was not well known in the district, and is believed to have been either a logger or construction worker. Date for an inquest has not yet been set.

'ELECTION' HIGHWAY CHEAP ROAD?

Opposition leader Robert Strachan charged in the legislature Monday the reconstructed Trans-Canada Highway south of Duncan is a "cheap road."

"It looks and acts like a cheaply built road," he said. Mr. Strachan noted that the hard-surfacing of the highway within his riding of Cowichan-Newcastle was completed just two days before the election last September.

"I wish they had spent more time on construction," he said.

The restrictions are enforced to protect main highways and side roads from frost damage.

A department of highways official said they will be in effect for the next two to six weeks.

There is no indication that frost damage to roads will be heavier than usual this spring.

More Roads Under Slow-Down Order

Water Board Refuses Lower Stumpage Rate

Greater Victoria Water Board today refused a request from Manning Timber Company to ease a contract agreement for logging on the Goldstream watershed.

Charles Rutland, appearing for the company, asked an average stumpage fee of $32.65 per 1,000 board feet be reduced by $10.

He said due to declining log prices since the contract to cut approximately 1,350,000 board feet was signed last April, his firm stands to lose heavily.

He said sales of timber at present are fetching his firm about $12 a thousand under the cost of logging.

The contract runs for another five months and if completed could cost the firm $7,500. If it withdraws from the water board contract it loses $5,200 deposit plus about $15,000 in logging subcontracts.

Members of the board expressed sympathy but pointed out two other logging firms, Moore-Whittington and Oak Bay Lumber have similar logging contracts.

Any concessions, if they could be made under statutes governing the water district, would be a precedent which would likely have to be repeated.

Value of the timber contract based on the 1,350,000 board feet estimate was $50,000. But the logging firm has already logged 1,642,000 and some 750,000 board feet remains to be cut in the specified area.

The water district has received $25,000 stumpage to date and stands to collect another $30,000 if the contract is completed.

In My Roaming Downtown I Found All Sorts of Buys

By PENNY SAVER

Everything, but everything has a cover of some sort. I came to this great conclusion after wandering around town in search of bargains for you readers. I found covers for chairs, covers for sports equipment, covers for hats, covers for food covers. They come in set of three for $2.99, a special price for you lucky golfers. They're of natural leather, well-made and designed to last. It might be a good idea to tuck a set or two away for HIS birthday, or, turning the tables for the occasion, present a set to him on St. Valentine's Day.

More "undercover" stuff—here are plastic sofa covers to protect the upholstery, or to keep dust off while you're off on a trip. These are $2.89 each. Next on the list is a contour mattress cover. It fits snugly, and, of course, does a wonderful job of keeping your mattresses like new. The price—$1.98. There are regular mattress covers with zippers, at $3.69.

Now the mattress is neatly covered, you can start on that comfy comforter that you just hate to part with. The fact that the cover is getting a bit faded or worn doesn't mean you have to throw or give it away. Buy a new cover for it. They come in soft, printed lawn with inset bands and binding of satin in the print's predominant color. Gold, green, pink, maroon and blue are available. These comforter covers are really attractive, and cost $8.49 each.

Last, but not least, are covers for... you! Yep, I've found, on sale at a wonderfully low price, down-filled sleeping bags. For summertime camping trip, these nylon encased sleeping bags are cosy and warm. You'll save a few dollars by buying now, and when the warm weather rolls around, you'll be glad you looked ahead.

A St. Valentine's Day hint for you men: "To My Valentine" chocolates, in a gay, red embossed heart-shaped box, all be-ribboned and pretty. The boxes come in many sizes, from $1.35 through $2.50, $3.50, $5 and $10.

Call me at 2.3131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned here in the column today or during past weeks.

Mrs. M. Bennett presided. Mrs. V. Barry said 27 visits had been made to the sick during the month. Three new members, Mrs. Helen Hunter, Mrs. Mary Gagnier and Mrs. Jean Petrie were initiated and social chairman Mrs. D. Kisinger reported on plans for the annual Mother's Day tea.

Berkeley-Hemsworth Wedding in Courtenay

St. George's United Church, Courtenay, was scene recently of a lovely double-ring ceremony in which June Beverly, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hemsworth, Sandwick, B.C., and Robert Drew, only son of Mrs. R. Rae, Sr., Ladysmith, and the late Mr. W. D. Berkeley, were wed. Rev. Frank Johnson officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of white lace and net posed over satin. A lace jacket featured lily point sleeves and a sequin embroidered Peter Pan collar. Sparkling sequins outlined the pointed lace bodice insets which extended into the full skirt. Her chapel length veil of illusion net edged with lace misted softly from a pearl encrusted tiara. She carried a cascade bridal bouquet of red and white roses.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. George Bergsma, who wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow net over satin topped with a matching lace bolero. She carried a bouquet of blue and yellow flowers and wore a bandeau of yellow blossoms in her hair. Miss Marjorie Creaser was bridesmaid, in a blue net over satin multi-tiered ballerina-length dress. She carried a blue and yellow bouquet and wore a bandeau of blue flowers in her hair. Sheila Watkins, niece of the groom, was tiny flower girl, in a full-length frock of pink embossed nylon over pink taffeta. Her hair bandeau was of pink flowers and her bouquet of mixed flowers.

The groom had Melvin Strand as best man, and ushers were George Bergsma and Dwight Clayton.

During the signing of the register, Les Ross sang "O Perfect Love." Accompanist was D. Arnett, organist.

A reception was held at the Flamingo Room, where guests were received by the newlyweds and their families. Mrs. Hemsworth wore a navy lace dress with navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Rae chose a brown suit with beige accessories and a pink carnation corsage. A miniature bride and groom in a lace heart topped the ornately decorated three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table. Roy Clayton was master of ceremonies, and Sam Beck proposed the toast to the bride. Serving guests were Misses Naida Johnson, Gerry Ellison, Mrs. J. Gollick, Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. M. Strand, Mrs. B. Ralston, Mrs. B. Watkins, Mrs. J. Pritchard and Mrs. D. Clayton.

A Valentine's Day Treat Are Fancy Cupid's Tarts

These cupid's tarts are high-fashion, fancy, flavorful desserts. Your table will sparkle with sentiment when you serve them on a large platter surrounding a jumbo red heart-shaped candle.

Make the pastry by lining either the inside or outside of a heart-shaped gelatin mold. Bake them as you do regular pastry and cool before adding the rich, creamy and tangy lemon mixture.

You can melt the hardest heart when you serve hot tea and cupid's tarts.

CUPID'S TARTS

1½ cups sugar, 5 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups milk, 2 eggs yolk, ½ cup fresh lemon juice, grated peel of 1 lemon, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and milk in saucepan; cook over medium heat until smooth and translucent or about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in slightly beaten egg yolks and return to stove. Cook at low heat, stirring constantly, for another 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon juice, grated peel, and butter. Allow to cool. Pour into baked heart-shaped pastry shells or individual tart shells. Top with meringue.

Meringue: Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice to 2 egg whites. Beat until frothy, gradually add four tablespoons granulated sugar, and continue beating until whites are stiff.

DEMANDS PROBE BY LAW SOCIETY

Fired Law Clerk Claims A-G 'Blemished My Reputation'

City lawyer W. Berkeley Monteith said today if Attorney-General Robert Bonner believes, he acted unethically in his capacity of legislative law clerk, a report should be made to the B.C. Law Society.

Mr. Monteith claimed that the attorney-general had "blemished my professional reputation" with a statement made in the House Monday.

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Monteith was fired because "on more than one occasion" he acted in a private capacity on behalf of persons petitioning the Legislature's Private Bills Committee.

Mr. Monteith said today, "I want to have my say in court." In a prepared statement he said:

"... if my behaviour has been of such a character as to involve a serious breach of ethical conduct, as is implied, why is it that the attorney-general, who is ex-officio a member of the Law Society, has neglected to report it to that body."

"I demand that he do so."

Mr. Monteith said that as a professional man, his biggest asset was his reputation.

He charged that the attorney-general's statement was made "with complete and typical disregard for every rule of the House."

The attorney-general "in effect has announced a judgment already decided without any charge made or hearing held and in the absence of the person most concerned—myself," Mr. Monteith said.

"The sorriest scoundrel who appears before the Courts receives better treatment."

He added that he had "made no secret" of the fact that he was continuing to carry on his private practice while legislative law clerk.

Attorney-General Bonner knew as early as March, 1953, that he was acting on behalf of proponents of private bills, Mr. Monteith said.

Mr. Bonner referred unexpectedly to Mr. Monteith's dismissal soon after the House opened Monday.

Reading from a typewritten sheet, he said:

"A change has been made and recommended to this House in the position of law clerk because it was learned with disapproval that the prior incumbent (Mr. Monteith), while acting as advisor to the Private Bills Committee, was on more than one occasion acting at the same time privately for the petitioner for a private bill before the same committee."

Mr. Bonner stated that in 1953 a bill of costs was rendered to a petitioner in the following terms:

"To professional services, all services as parliamentary counsel and agent, revising and settling bill as introduced, settling amendments to be made in committee of whole House, and advising as to resisting proposed governmental amendments, including supervising and printing of bill at all stages and all attendances, conferences, letters, etc."

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Monteith's fees amounted to $150, plus long-distance phone calls totalling $5.40, making a total of $155.40.

In his prepared statement, Mr. Monteith said today he could "readily recall" the private bill referred to by Mr. Bonner and the name of his client, the petitioner.

"The ethics of my profession prohibit my revealing either," he said.

Mr. Monteith said that since he was appointed clerk in 1949 he had always made a point of informing the chairman of the Private Bills Committee of any bill in which he had been retained by the proponent or his solicitor.

Mr. Bonner had been chairman of the committee during at least one session, Mr. Monteith said.

"The situation disclosed by the attorney-general must obviously have been known to him for years yet he conveniently 'discovers' it at this late date and announces it after scrupulously avoiding any chance of having it debated in the House."

Mr. Bonner told the legislature, "It is felt that this House is entitled to disinterested service from its officers and action to this end has been taken."

Mr. Monteith's name was not used as a reason for his dismissal, Mr. Strachan said.

Premier Bennett rose to answer Mr. Strachan.

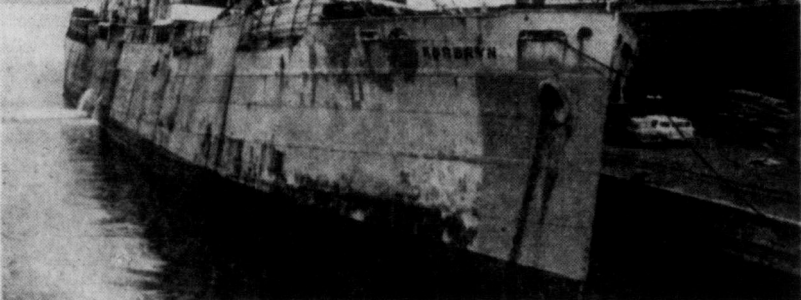

"The officer in question was not suspended by the Speaker because he had made a certain statement before a committee of this House. The Speaker advised all members of this House that he had asked the sergeant-at-arms if he made that statement."

"The Speaker said he (Mr. Jameson) had reiterated the statement. After that, the officer in question issued a statement in the Victoria Daily Times saying he would not return to this building at all."

"Therefore, the cabinet was advised of the situation and had to deal with it accordingly. This suspension was never made by the government. No member of the government had any knowledge of it until the Speaker had suspended the former sergeant-at-arms."

Speaker Irwin moved that the matter be dropped until a motion was properly brought before the House.

His suggestion was approved and the House went on to other business.

SOMETHING'S ROCKING THIS MIXED-UP BOAT

This-Away, That-Away, List-Away

By MONTE ROBERTS

Like a capricious dowager with a whim of iron, the Norwegian freighter Ss. Norbryn is causing trouble with her men friends.

At Ogden Point today, she is refusing to behave as a good ship should; instead, she has developed a little list.

To be exact, she has developed two little lists.

One to port, and one to starboard.

Fortunately for the sanity of her men friends — stevedores, supercargo, ship's agents and her own crew — she develops the little lists one at a time.

First she lists to starboard, then she lists to port. Then she lists to ...

All of which is amusing to the shipmaster or her owners in Norway, who wish to get Ss. Norbryn away on her voyage to Australia with a full cargo of newsprint and lumber below decks, and a deckload of lumber.

The trouble developed Monday evening, when loading had been completed and the time came to trim ship.

When water ballast was pumped from tanks on one side of the ship to the other, the Norbryn refused to settle on an even keel, and went too far over.

When pumps were reversed, the 5,000-ton freighter did the same thing in the other direction.

Blame is laid on somewhat ancient piping from tank to tank. The freighter was built in 1922, launched as Ss. Pacific Commerce — she was one of the first Furness-Withy freighters in the U.K. Pacific trade — and the years have not dealt kindly with her machinery.

But her supercargo, while mildly annoyed, has not despaired of her.

He just wishes the old girl were a bit more listless.

HE THREW OUT PISTOL AND SURRENDERED MEELY

Spinster Subdues Armed Escapee; Didn't Want 'My Chair Bloodied'

KINGMAN, Ariz. (AP)—An escaped convict surrendered to sheriff's officers Monday night after a 73-year-old spinster ordered him out of a parsonage where he had fled during a blazing gun fight.

"I didn't want to see him shot," Miss Louise Freeland said.

He probably would have bloodied up my favorite chair," Sheriff's officers identified the man as Charles E. Turner, 34, an escapee from a federal prison last June 4.

With Turner was Joyce Hitchcock, 17, of Helena, Mont., who told officers she was forced to accompany him on a four-state trip after he abducted her at gunpoint last Thursday.

Sheriff Frank L. Porter said.

"The only thing that worried me," Miss Freeland said, "was that he was sitting in my favorite chair. That really made me mad."

He was dirty and incoherent and he waved a pistol."

Miss Freeland said she scolded him for bragging in the rectory and ordered him to give himself up. She said Turner meekly agreed, walked to the door of the rectory, threw out his still-cocked pistol and surrendered.

Smith chased the gunman into the Trinity Episcopal Rectory, occupied by Miss Freeland, a sister of the former resident minister who died about a year ago.

Turner admitted in a signed statement that he kidnapped the girl.

Police patrolman Stephen Smith, who had been alerted Monday night to watch for Turner's car, said he tried to stop Turner as he drove into Kingman. After he parked the car, Smith said Turner suddenly flashed a .38 pistol and began firing at him.

The girl dropped to the floor of the car, slipped out the door and ran to a nearby house.
